BROOKLYN GETS FIRST SCORE IN THIRD INNING

Coombs Pitches for Home Team and Mays for Opponents—National Leaguers Fill Bases Wite One Out in First Inning but Fail to Score.

SCORE BY INNINGS.

BROOKLYN	0	0	1	1	2

EBBETS' FIELD, BROOKLYN, Oct. 10.—To turn the tide that has been carrying them away from the baseball championship, the Brooklyn Nationals, staggering from two defeats at the hands of the Boston Americans, made a determined fight today in their first contest on the home field. Coombs and Miller was the battery for Brooklyn and Mays and Thomas for Boston. A defeat for Brooklyn today would practically dispel their championship hopes. As it now stands Brookyn must win four out of the remaining five contests to win the world's series.

Keen for the taste of the big baseball event that makes or unmakes a champion, hundreds came out early to the park and sat for hours shivering in the arctic wind that swept the playing field. Scores of spectators, muffled themselves in sweaters and newspapers to keep out the biting edges of the north wind. The sun shone clear and bright but it was a poor day for a ball game. The players themselves hugged the warm rooms of the clubhouse until the last moment.

Shorten singled past Cutshaw. Hoblitzell singled to right and when Shorten tried to reach third he was thrown out, Stengel to Mowrey. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

BROOKLYN—The home folks gave Myers a warm reception, remembering him as the Brooklyn hero of yesterday's game. Myers was hit by a pitched ball. Daubert bunted safely, Myers going to second. It was a superb bunt and neither Thomas nor Mays could get it in time to retire the runner. Stengel sacrificed, Mays to Hoblitzell, Myers going to third and Daubert to second. The Bostons came in on the grass. Wheat was purposely passed, and the bases were filled. Cutshaw forced Myers, Hoblitzell to Thomas. Daubert went to third and Wheat to second on the play. BRITISH PARLIAMENT CONVENES

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The British Parliament assembled today for the autumn session. There are few matters of importance to come before Parliament with the exception of questions pertaining to the war. Financial aspects of the war were referred to by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Reginald McKenna.

In response to a question in the House of Commons, McKenna said the decision to issue 6 per cent exchequer bonds had been taken because the moment did not appear to be the most favorable to put out a long dated loan. He could not give a pledge as to the issuance of such a loan, he said, but intended to recommend such a flotation at the first favorable opportunity.

CAPT. JOHN BERRY RETURNS SAFELY FROM BALLOON TRIP

Made 350 Miles in Race From Muskogee and Landed Near Iowa Line—W. F. Assman Probably First.

Capt. John Berry, 69-year-old aeronaut, who represented the Million Population Club of St. Louis in the balloon endurance race from Muskogee, Ok., returned to St. Louis last night and brought the first information of his whereabouts since the race started Saturday. The delay in hearing of his landing gave rise to fears for his safety.

He said he released two carrier pigeons which he supposed would return to Muskogee with his messages of safety. The pigeons evidently were delayed, he said.

He landed Sunday in Harrison County, Mo., 20 miles from the Iowa line, having covered about 350 miles. He said he thought first place was won by William F. Assmann of St. Louis in the balloon St. Louis No. 1, who traveled about 400 miles. The official award has not yet been made.

BODY OF STRANGLED GIRL FOUND IN A CELLAR

Brooklyn Police Hunt Man Who Purchased Candy for 11-Year-Old Girl Last Week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Strangled with her own book strap after having been attacked, Tillie Brown, an 11-year-old schoolgirl, was found dead today in the cellar of a Monroe street tenement on the lower East Side.

The girl had been missing since yesterday, when she failed to return home from school. The only clew the police have was furnished by an uncle of the girl. He reported that last Thursday he saw a strange man purchase candy for the girl near the school. The police say they have a good description of the stranger.

WHY HUGHES HAS NOT VOTED

Followed Custom of Supreme Court Justices Who Regard Themselves as Out of Politics.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Charles E. Hughes registered for the November election here yesterday. He was the first voter to do so in the laundry shop which has been the voting place ever since he was Governor of New York.

In explanation of the nominee's failure to vote during the last six years, a statement was issued at Republican headquarters that Mr. Hughes found it was the general custom of the Justices of the Supreme Court, "who hold life positions and are wholly out of politics to abstain from voting." Mr. Hughes in registering gave his occupation as a lawyer.

BUTTERFLY CONVENTION HERE

St. Louis had a visitation yesterday of diurnal rhopalocerous lepidopterous insects with knobbed antenae, better known as butterflies. Thousands flitted about the skyscrapers and circled the dome of the courthouse. Their flight was swift and erratic, as if the sights and sounds of a great city perplexed them.

They were beautiful, as could be seen when one deigned to rest on a window sill. Their wings were burnt orange and black veined, with white spotted borders. Their visit was credited to the high wind driving them into the city from the fields.

THIRD GAME OF WORLD'S SERIES AT BROOKLYN TODAY

Coombs Likely to Pitch for the Home Team and Leonard for Boston.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The weather for the third game of the world's series is clear and cool.

The ticket holders for the games to be played on the Flatbush diamond—there were more than 20,000 of them before the rush to the grounds started—were not overimpatient to get to the playing field.

Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyns as usual gave no hint of his pitching selection, but "Iron Man" Jack Coombs was looked upon as his probable choice, with Marquard in a comeback effort as a possibility. Leonard seemed likely to be Boston's selection.

ONE OPERATOR SENDS STORY OVER 18,000 MILES OF WIRE

Associated Press Achieves Unprecedented Feat in News Transmission in World Series Game.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—An unprecedented feat in the telegraphic transmission of news was accomplished by the traffic department of the Associated Press yesterday, when one operator sitting in the stand at Braves Field in Boston was enabled to flash over 18,000 miles of leased wire the story of how the Boston Americans beat the Brooklyn Nationals in the second game of the world's baseball series.

Taking dictation from the Associated Press representatives who were covering the game, this operator, J. A. Bates, through the telegraphic connections arranged for the service, was able to send the story to 300 Associated Press offices and newspapers in the United States, tick for tick, into each office simultaneously—as far west as San Francisco, as far north as Duluth and as far south as New Orleans.

Heretofore in reporting world's series, the news has been relayed at Chicago and other points.

11 TOMATOES AND 11 POTATOES MADE TO GROW ON ONE PLANT

Freak of Grafting Is Successfully Accomplished at the Pennsylvania State College.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 10.—Eleven fully matured tomatoes and as many potatoes growing on a single plant in the vegetable gardens of the Pennsylvania State College marks the advent of the newest of freak plants in the vegetable world.

The experiment was conceived and carried to completion by C. E. Myers, professor of experimental vegetable growing at the college. A potato was planted and on the stalk produced there was grafted a young tomato shoot.

Tomato blossoms appeared, and these developed into normal tomatoes. Underground at the same time the potatoes grew and throve.

U. S. REFUSES TO BAR SUBMARINES FROM ITS PORTS

Request Had Been Made by Entente Allies and Directed to All Neutral Nations.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The United States has refused to accept the contention of the entente allies urging that neutrals deny the use of their harbors to all submarines, whether merchantmen or warships. Counsellor Polk of the State Department announced today.

The memorandum recently sent by the entente allies to neutral Governments said:

"Any place which provides a submarine warship far from its base with an opportunity for rest and replenishment of its supplies, thereby furnishes such addition to its powers that the place becomes in fact, through the advantages which it gives, a base of naval operations.

"Any belligerent submarine entering a neutral port should be detained there.

"The allied Governments take this opportunity to point out to the neutral Powers the grave danger incurred by neutral submarines in the navigation of regions frequented by belligerent submarines."

Counsellor Polk announced the department's position today, but refused to discuss the reasons for it. The American reply will not be made public before the return of Secretary Lansing from the summer White House tomorrow or Thursday. The claim of the allies that submarines are outlaws, as the note cabled last night from London shows, brought up the question of whether the American Government may be sued for damages resulting from the call of the German submarine U-53 at Newport before she started on her spectacular raid against commerce. Under the interpretation of the allies, the position may be taken that Newport was made the base for operations which officials estimate already have caused at least $8,000,000 damage to allied shipping and trade.

Any attempt to collect damages, however, would probably be most vigorously opposed by this Government, which holds that a warship has a right to enter a neutral harbor and that the U-53 in no way attempted to make Newport a base.

PRESIDENT TAKES UP U-BOAT FACTS

Executive Gives No Intimation That Drastic Action Will Become Necessary.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 10.—President Wilson gave his entire attention today to considering facts collected by the Navy Department regarding German submarine attacks on merchantmen off the American coast. He had intended going to Brooklyn for the third baseball game of the world's series, but changed his plans to devote himself to the foreign affairs of the nation.

The President this morning went over all the evidence collected so far. There was every indication that the President has received no information necessitating drastic action by the American Government.

The President has on his program today conferences with Secretary Lansing and Jules Jusserand, French Ambassador to the United States. He took lunch with W. F. McCombs, Democratic nominee for United States Senator. Lansing will not come until late this afternoon and will take dinner with the President

VILLA BAND SAID TO BE TEN MILES FROM PERSHING'S LINE

Mexicans Reported at Galeana—Another Force Believed to Have Occupied Madera.

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITION, by radio to Columbus, N. M., Oct. 9.—A band of Villa followers is reported at Galeana, within 10 miles of the line of communication between the expedition headquarters and El Valle, the southernmost camp of Gen. Pershing's troops.

Advices received at headquarters last night also state that Julio Acosta, a Villa leader, has occupied Madera, where a valuable lumber plant owned by English capitalists, is located.

Reports that Villa himself, with 1500 men, is at Guerrero are also at hand.

RUSSIANS REPORT SINKING TWO GERMAN SUBMARINES

Undersea Vessels Hnd Attacked Wireless Station on Lapland Coast—Gunfire Kills Several Persons.

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 10.—A Russian torpedo boat yesterday sank two German submarines after the submersibles had attacked the Russian wireless station at Sepnavolak on the Murman coast, according to information received here today from Petrograd.

Several persons were killed by the gunfire of the submarines.

The Murman coast, a part of Lapland adjoining Norway, is on the Arctic Ocean and is a part of the Kola peninsula.

JAIL TERM FOR COURT CRITIC

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 10.—B. Faisst, president of a lumber company at Benton, Ark., yesterday was found guilty of contempt of court and Chief Justice McCulloch of the Arkansas Supreme Court sentenced him to serve 10 days in jail and to pay a fine of $50. Faisst was removed from the courtroom by Deputy Sheriffs while he was attempting to deliver a further denunciation of the Court and was taken to the Pulaski County Jail to begin serving his sentence.

Faisst's conviction resulted from the publication in a Benton newspaper of an article in which he accused the Supreme Court Justices of being corrupt.

BREMEN HAS BEEN GIVEN UP AS LOST BY BERLIN OWNERS

Post-Dispatch Correspondent Learns Craft Sailed for U. S. on July 10.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Herbert Bayard Swope, staff correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the World, who arrived today on the Frederick VIII, declared that the underseas merchantman Bremen sailed from Bremen for America with a cargo of dyes and chemicals on July 10, the day her sister ship, the Deutschland, docked at Baltimore.

She has since been given up as lost by her owners, the German Undersea Navigation Co.

Swope told of dining with Alfred Lohmann, director of the Undersea Navigation Co., at Bremen, on Sept. 14.

"Lohmann told me," said Swope, "that the Bremen was expected to be heard from as reaching her destination safely almost at any time, and that he was certain he would have received the anxiously awaited word within a day or two.

"She was then long overdue. On the sixteenth Lohmann called me on the telephone and admitted that the Bremen had not been heard from, as expected, and grave fears were entertained for her safety. Since then nothing has been heard from the liner, and that she has been lost or is in the hands of the enemy is virtually admitted in the empire."

DRYS BARRED FROM COURT YARD

Prohibition Campaigners Compelled to Use Church at Peoria.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 10.—After having been refused the use of the courthouse yard for holding a meeting last night, and going to a church to talk, the Prohibition national campaigners left here today to fill engagements at Illinois points and in one Missouri city.

The drys were unable to learn the cause of their being refused the yard, as meetings were held in it during the recent primaries by both Democrats and Republicans. Petersburg, Ashland, Jacksonville, Mount Sterling and Quincy, Ill., and Hannibal, Mo., are on today's schedule.

PATIENT SHOOTS CHICAGO DOCTOR

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Dr. J. B. Weintraub was shot and probably fatally injured in his office today by Arthur McLaren of Livingston, Montana. In his statement to the police McLaren said that Dr. Weintraub operated on him in 1909; that the operation was improperly performed and that as a result he could never marry.

"I was sick at that time," said McLaren. "He told me that the operation would cure me, but it didn't. I have never been able to stop thinking of what he did." The prisoner said that he was a dentist.

COW A FAILURE IN FIRE ROLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—A cow playing the role of the cow that kicked over the lantern in Mrs. O'Leary's barn in 1871, thus starting the great Chicago fire, declined last night to put her hoofs anywhere near the light.

Firemen, therefore, were obliged to flank the straw in the reproduction of the scene on the lake front. The occasion was the celebration of the anniversary of the fire in which a fire prevention pageant was staged in Grant Park.

GERARD TO REPORT ON GROWING MENACE OF RENEWED U-BOAT WAR

Opposition to Indiscriminate Undersea Campaign Said to Be Breaking Down in Germany.

ENVOY HAS NO MESSAGE FROM BERLIN FOR PEACE

Post-Dispatch Correspondent Two Months in Germany Who Returns on Ship With Ambassador, Found Situation Serious for This Country.

By Herbert Bayard Swope.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1916, by Press Pub. Co.)

(Special Wireless Dispatch to the Post-Dispatch.)

ON BOARD S. S. FREDERICK VIII, via Siasaconset, Mass., Oct. 9.—The Post-Dispatch can state positively that Ambassador Gerard, who is on board the Frederik VIII arriving in New York tomorrow, carries no message from Germany to President Wilson requesting his good offices to make peace.

Such reports are wholly false, and are probably the outgrowth of a stock-jobbing plot having its origin in Copenhagen and being imposed upon the United States. The Ambassador resents the effort to use the President and himself, especially as his visit is fraught with such seriousness that a misconstruction may add to the gravity of an already delicate situation.

Ambassador Gerard is making his first visit to America in three years to report to President Wilson in person on a matter vastly more important to America than the subject of peace, important as that is. He comes to describe the heavy black cloud over German-American relations in the form of the submarine menace, which is growing day by day and which, even the most friendly German statesmen agree, will break open after election unless the unexpected occurs and peace intervenes.

Mr. Gerard will report that Germany is nurturing no false hopes or delusions on this point. She does not believe peace is a likelihood or will be a probability for a long time, so she is concerning herself with means of war, ignoring the peace talk. Therefore it is proper to say the diplomat's visit has to do more with the war and the possibility of our becoming involved than it has to deal with peace through our agency.

It is, of course, true that the Ambassador has received a communication from the Kaiser and the members of the German Government on the subject of ending the war, but these are all indefinite and formulated in plans lacking any immediacy.

Planning New U-Boat Campaign.

On the other hand, I am able to state the real purpose of the Ambassador's journey is to present to the administration in concrete what every intelligent visitor to Germany recently has been impressed by— the sure and rapid weakening of German opposition to a "rucksichtslose" U-boat campaign and the deliberate preparations being made to resume the practices objected to by America in the cases of the Lusitania, Arabic and Sussex, to mention only three of the most prominent instances.

Those few German statesmen who helped the Ambassador in his effort to have the President's restriction on submarine warfare accepted by Germany are now casting about for some means of permitting the resumption of the interdicted method, but at the same time changing it in some way to come within the limits laid down by the United States. They confess themselves unable to discover such plans, and they have been made to understand that no subterfuge will be permitted by Washington.

In the Ambassador's opinion it would be doing Germany a great injustice to say she is ready to sue for peace, as such thoughts are far from the German mind. She is ready, even anxious, for "honorable peace," but her ideas on that point are so far removed from those of the allies that it is proper to conclude she is not permitting peace thoughts to enter her present calculation.

"Durchalten" (go through with it) is her motto, and included in the word is her intention of employing the most ruthless forms of warfare, which she justifies on the ground that her very existence as a nation is threatened.

For two months I have been in close touch with the situation in Germany, and was fortunate enough to have opened to me, in many cases, the same sources of information on which Mr. Gerard is depending for the reports he is making, and to my use of which he does not object. Naturally, his position is such that he cannot talk, but the menace in our relations with Germany is today so obvious that its existence requires no specific admission or confirmation from him.

It is the belief at the Berlin embassy that the danger becomes greater through the fact that the extremely rigid German political censorship permits no word to go out of the truth. That is why the story of the Tirpitz manifesto to the Admiral's supporters regarding the necessity of preparing for the inevitable conflict between Germany and "Anglo-Americanism" burst upon America like a shell from a masked battery.

Previous to Ambassador Gerard's departure from Berlin he had a long conference with the Chancellor; Herr Zimmerman, the permanent chief undersecretary for foreign affairs, considered by many the strongest man of today; Herr von Jagow, secretary for foreign affairs; Dr. Helferich, secretary of the interior, and Herr Solf, colonial secretary.

These men may be said to have constituted the chief supporters of the policy of friendship with America against the coalition of conservatives, Agrarians, National Liberals and the members of "all the Deutschthum" who are fire-eating advocates of the "rucksichtslose" methods. Field Marshal von Hindenburg is reported also as opposing the plan, but he has never taken a public position on the question and his allegiance is not counted on.

Preparing to Recede.

In the face of the opinion and sentiment that no posible weapon should be left unused, the Government is preparing to recede from the position assumed in reply to the Sussex note.

Its recession is clearly foreshadowed —apart from what I was told in private conversations with Herr Zimmerman, Herr von Jagow, Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, Minister to Denmark and a possible successor to Herr von Jagow, and other big men of Germany —by five things:

First: The direct intimations given the American Ambassador.

Second: Letters, speeches and protocols of Admiral von Tirpitz, of Herr Bassermann, the leader of the powerful National Liberals, and of the leaders of the "Junkerthum."

Third: The immense public sentiment favoring it.

Fourth—A significant incident in the middle of September, when Count Zeppelin wrote an open letter to the Chancellor, by arrangement, giving Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg a clean bill of health on the charge of having opposed the Zeppelin raids over London—in other words, acquitting the Chancellor of standing against the "program of ruthlessness," a big point of which is the resumption of the U-boat campaign.

Fifth, and most important—the declaration and prophecy of the Chancellor's speech on opening the Reichstag on Sept. 28, when he said: "The German statesman who would hesitate to employ every available instrument of battle that would really shorten the war should be hanged."

It is no violation of confidence to say that when the report of this speech reached the Ambassador, he prepared to leave the ship and return to Germany, fearing that Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg indicated an even quicker resumption of the submarine war than had been the belief upon his departure from Berlin. It was only the nature of the reports he has for President Wilson and Secretary Lansing that prompted him to continue his voyage.

Gerard to Return Early to Berlin.

He plans to make his visit as brief as possible, and he feels it is necessary for him to be back in the German capital in the shortest time.

This matter of the U-boat campaign has become two-edged in Germany. It is both international and national. The Conservatives, despairing of a quick peace, are using it as a campaign argument in the international policy. They are capitalizing to the fullest extent "America in secret alliance with England has, through a specious plea of international law and the maudlin claim of acting for humanity, struck from the hand of Germany her most powerful weapon, so Germany may the more easily be brought to her knees."

The Conservatives are fighting for their existence, and trying to interweave in the public eye their own fate with that of the fatherland. That they have succeeded in swinging an enormous portion of the nation to that belief cannot be doubted, and this doubt is least of all in the mind of the Ambassador.

Curiously enough the U-boat question in Germany is made also an element in America's internal politics, and it is used as a basis for the overwhelming sentiment in Germany for the election of Hughes. I say that this statement will be found in Mr. Gerard's report. The defeat of President Wilson on Nov. 7 would be greeted in the German empire as a gigantic German victory, and I was told by Cabinet members and business men, soldiers and professors, that flags would be hung out of every window in honor of the occasion.

German Money to Aid Hughes.

This feeling is predicated first upon the intense desire to smash President Wilson for his alleged unneutral attitude toward Germany, and second, upon the belief that Germany has much to expect from Hughes. There is no pretense at concealing the fact that Hughes is the choice of Germany for the American presidency, and there is no successful cloaking the belief—although the support is made to cover it—that Germany has much to gain as a recompense for its support of the Republican candidate.

It is a matter of record that pretended American organizations in Germany have raised money for propaganda work (in which Germany is still a fond believer) for Hughes in America, and the report is freely circulated in Berlin that St. John Gaffney, the discredited former Consul-General at Munich, took with him money to use in supporting Hughes among the American Irish and Catholics.

It was from sources close to Gaffney that the charge came that the Wilson administration was responsible for the execution of Sir Roger Casement. Thus departs Irish support from the President. Other discredited Americans in Germany, one a correspondent who was the center of another scandal, have been willing, paid tools to the anti-Wilson propaganda.

And a big part of the price Germany, or that part of it which is meddling in American politics and opposing Wilson, expects and actually believes it will get from Hughes, should he be elected, is his assent to the resumption of the U-boat war. This is the return Germans pretend to await from the Republicans, in exchange for the solid sympathy and support Hughes is to get.

Issue of Germany's Life.

As the Germans reason, President Wilson is committed to opposition to the U-boat war. The U-boat is an issue of Germany's life. Therefore, President Wilson must be destroyed, that Germany may live. There is, of course, the corollary that enemy of Germany, among whom President Wilson is classed, must be left undisturbed.

The problem perplexing every student of German affairs, including the Ambassador, and one that will be equally difficult for the President and Secretary Lansing to solve is just what the "ruechsichlose krieg" advocates expect to gain through resumption of the U-boat war.

The only certainty of such a measure will be a break with America and the probable consequence of war, and this is admitted by those in favor of the course. In their views, as Admiral von Tirpitz put it, war with America would certainly come in the future, so it might as well come now.

How such a contingency will favorably affect the fortune of the central Powers is not clear, nor do the supporters of the policy endeavor to explain, although every opportunity has been afforded them by Ambassador Gerard. They content themselves with saying: "It is better to have an outright enemy than a false friend," with which term they characterize America.

That an unseen and ulterior motive lies behind the submarine proposition, apart from the desire to punish America for real or fancied humiliation or injuries done Germany is shown by the fact—in spite of the claim of the fire eaters that America struck away Germany's strongest weapon—the notable fact that she has been able to continue the U-boat war under the terms laid down by President Wilson with success.

From official figures I obtained from the Germany Admiralty, copies of which the Ambassador is carrying to Washington, it appears that in August of this year German submarines destroyed 161 ships of a total tonnage of 209,347. In July, 74 ships of 103,000 tons were sunk; in June, 61 vessels of 101,000 tons; in May, 76 of 118,500 tons were destroyed.

It was then President Wilson's doctrines were applied to the German operations, the count from January to that month reaching the greatest figures of 869,500 tons. In the light of these figures, it is difficult to see just how America "struck away Germany's most powerful weapon." But there is another side to the matter of the "ruecksichtlose U-boat krief," and that is the failure of Germany to operate effectively along lines where not the least question of right could be raised—the destruction of British transports crossing the English Channel.

Channel Transports Guarded.

It is estimated that Great Britain has transported to and from France a grand total of more than 2,000,000 men and not one has been lost through an attack on the ships by German submarines. Here must be admitted, was a legitimate opportunity to use the policy of ruthlessness, yet every effort failed through the safeguards of the British navy.

In the light of this result, the Ambassador and others have been forced to the conclusion that the so-called "ruecksichtslose" method is merely another name for attacks on unarmed merchantmen carrying women and children and other noncombatants, and the conclusion is admitted to be right by the more candid advocates, who justify themselves on the ground that England must be made to feel the war's weight, and that since England is seeking to starve German women and children, it is right and proper to drown or otherwise kill English noncombatants and those of any other nationalities who get in the way.

The terrific hold the policy of ruthlessness has upon the body of the German people is shown in the popularity of the Zeppelin raids over England, which have increased enormously of late, and none has dared to raise a voice in protest; on the contrary, as I said before, it was necessary even for the Chancellor himself to have Zeppelin free him from the charge of opposing the use of aircraft.

"And if war with America comes, what then?" is the rhetorical question the fire-eaters ask the Ambassador and other Americans. Then they answer their own query by saying war between the two countries would benefit Germany by compelling America to keep munitions and other supplies at home, where they cannot be used against the fatherland.

Pointed to Our Ingenuity.

On one occasion, when this question was put directly to the Ambassador from the highest quarter, he pointed out how twofold unwise it was of Germany to underestimate American ingenuity in war making since it was from America that the first steamship, the first submarine, the first repeating rifle, machine gun and other war engines came.

The outline of subjects for Mr. Gerard to report on shows how far removed Germany is from the idea of seeking for peace. She is today more warlike, although perhaps less hopeful, than before. It would be doing the Ambassador a great injury in his future work in Berlin if the false story that he makes his journey to supplicate for Germany were given credence.

Mr. Gerard's visit is neither for nor against Germany, but solely in the interests of America to protect her against grave and immediate probabilities. As he says, he is the American Ambassador and not the representative of Germany or the allies.

Our future relations with Germany swings largely upon election day, for the idea that peace may come before then, or even soon after, is credited by none in Germany and certainly not by the Ambassador, who has seen the preparations made by Germany to stand against a war that may last another five years.

Peace Nearer Five Months Ago.

Five months ago peace was much nearer than now. I can say this on the highest American authority, who found at that time not England but France standing in the way. Every effort looking toward ending the war then was bitterly opposed by France, with England lukewarm. Those familiar with the inner details in Washington will immediately recognize the truth of the statement, but it doesn't hold true today.

Washington as well as Berlin has learned that Britain is prepared and determined to fight as she did in the Napoleonic wars, alone if necessary, rather than take a peace she cannot frame up, and therefore the Ambassador had it impressed on him by Wilhelmstrasse that it is England alone that Germany is shooting at. Scant attention is paid by the German Government to France, Russia and Italy. The Kaiser's foreign policy is formulated only with the thought of England in mind. From the Chancellor down this is freely admitted.

Severe as conditions are becoming in the "beleaguered fortress," as Germans call their country, the spirit of patriotism burns as brightly as ever. If the hope of victory is gone, it has been succeeded by a grim defiance that means even more, for it feeds upon recklessness.

Say U. S. Doesn't Want Peace.

Every American in Germany, including the Ambassador, has heard on the streets and read in the newspapers statements that America doesn't want the war to end; that it is being continued by the President because of the prosperity it is supposed to bring us. In fact, the fire-eaters say, it was this internal political motive that made the President send the Lusitania notes, because in taking away from Germany her "sure means of ending the war, the U-Boat," he devised an effective means of prolonging the fight, thus benefiting our industries.

The widespread credence this remarkable story has gained is but one ground upon which rests the bitter, deep hatred for and resentment toward America, which is becoming among the people as set an idea as the sentiment against England was at the beginning of the war.

"America is worst of all," is a favorite phrase throughout Germany and it is this state of mind that makes welcome the talk and plans for taking up rueckschitshlose marine warfare. If written evidence were needed, it is afforded by the hundreds of abusive and threatening letters Mr. Gerard has been receiving weekly for the last four and a half weeks.

Against this state of the public mind, cleverly and insidiously fed by the Tirpitzites and others of the pan-German league, no opposition, however reasonable, can stand long, and it is in preparation for the worst contingency that Mr. Gerard is visiting Washington to report, and for instructions.

The Ambassador will proceed to Washington as soon as possible after his arrival. He may stay in America less than two weeks, although he will be here for the first time in more than three years, and although he has big personal interests to look after. The sea voyage has benefited him and he seems better after the heavy strain in that nerve-wracked countryy.

Mrs. Gerard, who is with him, will go to the Daly ranch in Montana, leaving for Germany again about the middle of November. It is her first return to America in more than two years. Her work in Berlin won high praise there.

How Thin People Can Put on Flesh

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good, solid pounds of healthy, "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Drug Co.'s 3 stores, Weipert Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co.'s 3 stores and all other good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back, as found in every large package.—ADV.

and remain at Shadow Lawn over night. Ambassador Jusserand has a personal letter from President Poincare of France to President Wilson on Polish relief, but it is expected that the new German submarine activities will be discussed.

It was not believed that the American Government will take any immediate action on developments to date in the renewal of German submarine activities, but serious consideration is given to the question of whether attacks on the merchantmen so near the coast do not constitute a virtual blockade of American ports.

James Gerard, American Ambassador to Germany, who arrived in New York today from Germany, is not expected to see President Wilson until next week. It was stated authoritatively here that Gerard does not come on any peace mission and that his trip has no connection with submarine warfare, but that he is simply on a vacation.

President Wilson plans to leave Shadow Lawn tomorrow afternoon for Indianapolis, where he will speak twice Thursday afternoon. It was stated here that he had no intention of canceling the Indianapolis trip, which is taken as an indication that so far he does not consider the submarine situation critical.

Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, who came here yesterday to give the President a personal letter from the German Emperor on Polish relief, discussed with President Wilson the new activities of German submarines.

The Ambassador remained with the President only 15 minutes, and was smiling when he left. He declared he was as much surprised as anybody when the news of the sinking of the first British ship reached him.

Three of the men had revolvers and began to shoot at him, firing, he thought, about 15 shots. He fired five shots in return, after which the strikers ran away.

Persons living in the neighborhood told of hearing the shots. So far as the police could learn no one was injured.

SHIPS SAILING NEW LANES TO AVOID SUBMARINE

Big Cargoes in Atlantic Ports Tied Up as Result of Demoralized Steamship Schedules—Kingstonian's Crew Is Still Missing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A day and night without further news of the U-53 has not quieted any of the anxiety in shipping circles caused by the activities of the submarine commerce raider at the bend of the great North Atlantic highway off Nantucket. If anything, the disappearance of the German U-boat and the mystery regarding her present location, increased the precautions taken by owners and agents of vessels of the entente nations.

Transatlantic liners and freight steamers approached this port today by unusual courses which carried them far out of the customary lane. Cargoes worth millions are at stake in the game of hide-and-seek which may be going on off shore.

The Cameronia, a British vessel, received a wireless warning while off Nantucket on Sunday that a German submarine was in the vicinity. Lifeboats were swung out and life belts were distributed among the 670 passengers and the ship abruptly turned her course to the south. Off Cape May the Cameronia entered the threemile neutrality limit and hugging the shore, steamed north not once going outside the safety zone.

The Greek steamship Patris, upon her arrival here today from Mediterranean ports, reported that she sighted a submarine during foggy weather off Nantucket at 5:30 a. m., Monday. The Patris' captain said he tried to speak the U-boat in the Morse code, but received no answer, and his vessel proceeded unmolested.

Exporters here say the submarine raid and the consequent advance of the insurance rates on transatlantic transportation amounting in some cases to 500 per cent, will check shipments from New York to European ports. Word was received from New Orleans that war risks on vessels and cargoes out of that port had been suspended, and dispatches from other ports indicated that the insurance rates had sharply advanced. There was talk of a revival of a railroad embargo on freight, but no new action was taken.

Crew of the Kingstonian Is Still Missing.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 10.—The crew of the British freight steamship Kingstonian, missing since Sunday when its members abandoned their ship at the order of the raiding German submarine in the waters off Nantucket Shoal Lightship, had not been heard from today. Eleven torpedo boat destroyers were dispatched to the vicinity of the lightship by Rear Admiral Gleaves to continue the search.

No further report of the submarine or submarines which destroyed six steamships Sunday on the trans-Atlantic lane that rounds the lightship, came to hand today. There has been no trace of the submersible since its last victim went to the bottom Sunday night.

Search for the missing crew, said to number more than 50 men, was halted yesterday on receipt of reports that some of them had been found. There was no confirmation from any source by wireless, and, in fact, the report was officially denied.

Rear Admiral Knight, commandant of the Narragansett Station, has expressed the belief that the Kingstonian's crew may have been picked up by an eastbound steamer.

Ship Attacked Without Warning, Says British Captain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Thirteen shots were fired at the British steamship Strathdene, one of the vessels sunk by a German submarine off Nantucket, before the 33 members of the crew had taken to their boats, according to Capt. Wilson, the Strathdene's commander, who was brought here with his crew by the Uruguayan steamer P. L. M. No. 4.

"My ship was attacked without warning," declared Capt. Wilson, after he had given a detailed statement of the incident to the British Consul-General. "Thirteen shots were fired before we left the vessel. None of the shots, however struck the ship until we had taken to the boats."

Members of the Strathdene's crew said that after they had pulled away from their ship, they saw the submarine approach the oil steamer Christian Knudsen, whose crew seemed to be getting ready to lower their boats. The submarine then returned and torpedoed the Strathdene and again started toward the oil ship and apparently replenished her oil tanks. Several torpedo boats were in the vicinity, the sailors said, when the two ships were sunk. Officers of the rescuing ship asserted the Strathdene's officers told him that the submarine was made fast to the tanker for three quarters of an hour, taking oil before that vessel was sunk.

Accounts of the torpedoing of the Strathdene told on board the P. L. M. No. 4 by the rescued crew, corroborated Capt. Wilson's statement that his ship was fired on before the officers and crew got into the boats.

Says U-Boat Captain Boarded Vessel.

Capt. Yates of the P. L. M. No. 4 said Capt. Wilson told him that when the submarine came alongside, eight or 10 officers, including Capt. Rose of the U-53, boarded the Strathdene.

"Capt. Rose ordered me to abandon ship immediately," Capt. Yates said. Capt. Wilson told him. "The two boats were lowered and the submarine commander gave instructions for reaching Nantucket lightship, ordering us to row as fast as possible. As we pulled away the submarine fired four more shots at her which struck above the water line."

The oil steamer just then hove in sight and the submarine headed for her, afterward returning to torpedo the Strathdene.

The Island of Nantucket lies 20 miles south of the Elbow of Cape Cod. The Nantucket lightship is stationed 45 miles south of Nantucket Island. Between the island and the lightship are dangerous shoals. Accordingly, while operating off the lightship Sunday, the German submarine was 45 miles from American territory and 65 miles from the mainland. So far as an invasion of the three-mile limit neutral zone was concerned, the warship might as well have been in mid-ocean.

Immediately south of Nantucket Island is the lane followed by eastbound vessels. Twenty miles south of the island is the path of shipping bound in for New York.

Submarine Activity Ties Up Cargoes Valued at $14,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—No vessels flying foreign flags have cleared from this port since the reports of German submarine activities off the New England coast reached here Sunday.

Seventeen British, French, Italian and Japanese vessels are docked here and shipping men estimate that cargoes valued at $14,000,000 are tied up here. It is understood they are awaiting convoys which are reported on the way.

Norwegian Steamer Riahol Sunk, Lloyds Announces.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Lloyds announces that the Norwegian steamer Riahol has been sunk.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The wireless press has received word from Madrid by way of Rome that the Spanish Government has given definite orders prohibiting the revictualing of submarines in Spanish waters. A number of torpedo boats have arrived at Palma and are patrolling the Balearic Islands in the western Mediterranean.

GERARD ARRIVES, BUT IS SILENT AS TO HIS MISSION

Ambassador Refuses to Affirm or Deny That He Brings Message From Kaiser.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to Germany, upon his arrival, declined to either affirm or deny published reports that he was returning to the United States on a peace mission on behalf of the Emperor of Germany.

Gerard's attention was called to the story appearing in today's New York World and in the Post-Dispatch to the effect that his errand was to inform the administration that a renewal of submarine activity is being considered by Germany in a manner which might threaten German-American relations. Mr. Gerard, after quickly glancing through this story, said:

"You don't see me quoted anywhere in it, do you?"

To questions put to the Ambassador by reporters who met him at quarantine, he replied:

"It is useless to question me, boys; I cannot say a word."

"The length of my stay here is not yet determined, neither have I made any plans," he added. "I expect to go to Washington, but when I do not know. I am glad to be home, though."

Met by Mayor Mitchel.

The Scandinavian-American liner Frederik VII, on which Gerard arrived, was met at quarantine by a municipal police boat on which was Mayor Mitchel's reception committee, headed by Oscar Straus, chairman of the Public Service Commission. Mrs. Gerard, who accompanied the Ambassador, was presented with American Beauty roses. She will go to Montana to visit her mother.

Mrs. Gerard has been credited with taking a leading part in war relief in Germany. Asked as to this work, she disclaimed any personal credit, saying that all American women in Germany have done "magnificent work."

The Ambassador said there are about 3000 Americans in Germany, of whom about 700 are in Berlin.

WITNESSES TELL HOW CHIEF ABUSED FIREMEN AT FIRE

Testimony That Henderson Struck His Men, Called Them Cowards and Cursed Them.

SCHOOLBOYS ON STAND

Chief Denies Allegations, and Declares That Politicians Are Behind Plot Against Him.

Two witnesses, at this morning's session of the Coroner's inquest into the deaths of six firemen in the Christian Brothers College fire last Thursday identified Fire Chief Henderson as the man whom, they said, they saw strike firemen who were reluctant to enter the college building, before the interior wall fell. The inquest was adjourned, shortly after noon, until tomorrow morning.

The witness who testified in the greater detail was William Thornhill, 24 years old, of 4846 Easton avenue. He said he saw Henderson strike a fireman in the back, on the roof of the building, and that later he saw him strike another fireman in the mouth, at the main entrance of the building. The latter fireman, Thornhill testified, stepped up to the chief at the entrance, and objected to entering the building.

"Get in there, you damned coward, or go home," he said Henderson replied to the man, at the same time striking him in the mouth. The fireman, Thornhill said, did not say a word.

At this point in the testimony, Chief Henderson, who had been summoned by the Coroner for the purpose of identification by witnesses, approached the Coroner and asked to be excused, saying he had an important engagement. Coroner Padberg asked him to wait a moment, and then asked the witness if he recognized Henderson as the man he was testifying against.

he was testifying about.

"That's the man," Thornhill insisted. He added that he had seen Henderson before, as he had an uncle who was formerly a fireman. He said he saw a chauffeur, in the Chief's machine, waiting for Henderson at the time of the incident he related.

Thornhill said he heard Henderson curse Father O'Rourke. The priest had told Henderson that he should not send men into the building. "Get to hell out of here," Henderson said, acording to Thonhill, "I'm unning this fie."

Still, later, he said, a truck was stalled and Henderson, at the steering wheen, shouted to bystanders: "Come on, you citizens, what the hell are you standing there for? Come and give a hand."

Says Chief Abused Priest.

The previous witness who identified the Chief, saying he had seen him "half push and half strike" a fireman, was Frank J. Smercina, 19, of 4841 Leduc street. This happened, he said, about 9 o'clock on the morning of the fire on the terrace to the southeast of the building.

"What, me?" asked Chief Henderson, when Smercina pointed him out, having picked him from among others with firemen's uniforms. "Yes," said the youth. He later said, on cross-examination, that he was "pretty positive" of his identification, but might be surer if he could see the man in the same clothes he wore at the fire.

The inquest, which began yesterday, is turning almost entirely on the question of the responsibility for the presence of the firemen in the rotunda of the college building at a time when the fire was under control, and when no lives, beyond those known to have been already lost, were in danger. The wall fell about 11:30.

May Employ Counsel.

The Coroner told Chief Henderson, when he summoned him to the inquest to be identified by Smercina and other witnesses, that he would have the privilege of employing counsel to represent him. Henderson said he would take advantage of this privilege. He said, after reading accounts of yesterday's testimony, that the charge made against him, of cursing firemen and ordering them into the place of danger with harsh words and charges of cowardice, was untrue, and was inspired by enemies.

Two other witnesses, who related this morning that they saw a man, apparently in authority at the fire, strike a fireman, were unable to identify Henderson as the man. One of these was Isador Fox, 16 years old, of 4436 Cote Brilliante avenue, a high school student and a newspaper vender. He testified that he saw a man, whom he supposed at the time to be Chief Henderson, strike or push a fireman who had a gray beard, as the fireman was picking up a line of hose about 9:20 a. m.

He said the man whom he supposed to be the Chief was wearing a long white rubber cape, which came nearly to his knees. As this differed from the description given by other witnesses of Henderson's costume, the Coroner ordered a recess, and sent for Chief Henderson.

Neither Fox nor the next witness, Daniel C. Neaf, 18 years old, of 1432 North Taylor avenue, could pick out the man whom they saw, from the gathering of 150, after Henderson had entered in his office uniform. They said they would know the man if they should see him in the same garb that he wore at the fire.

Saw Fireman Struck.

Neaf testified that, before the wall fell, he saw a man in a white rubber coat get out of a large Marmon car, and that a fireman spoke to him. The man in the car, he said, turned on the fireman, applied an offensive epithet to him and struck him in the mouth, causing the fireman's gums to bleed.

Mrs. Dexheimer and Lieut. Budde's wife were at the fire at 11 o'clock last Thursday, about half an hour before the firemen were crushed to death under a falling wall. Mrs. Dexheimer said she found her brother at the extreme east end of the college, and told him not to go into the building. She told him the walls would fall, and he replied that "It's safe."

The Sunday before the fire, she testified, her brother was home and said:

"I'll never go in where a wall is liable to fall, unless my Chief orders me."

Thomas P. Cook of 3958 Blaine avenue, an ambulance driver, testified he was at the fire from early morning until 8 p. m. He saw Chief Henderson several times, but did not hear him use profanity. He said the Fire Chief wore a white slicker and white helmet. He saw him at the fire about 45 minutes before the wall collapsed.

Cook told of taking Capt. August Schaeffer to St. John's Hospital after the Captain had been dug out of the death trap. The fire Captain said to him, "Just lay me on the floor and go on back and see if you can't get the rest of the boys."

Mrs. A. S. Dexheimer, 4753 Labadie avenue, sister of Lieut. Harry Budde, who lost his life in the fire was a witness. "When my brother's body was laid out," she testified, "Chief Henderson came to the house and while he was looking at my brother I asked:

"'Why did you take my brother from me?' He never defended himself. He just swallowed."

Attacks Chief Henderson.

The witness then launched into an attack upon Chief Henderson. "To show what manner of a man Henderson is," Mrs. Dexheimer testified, "a man who was reduced went to Henderson's office lately and asked him why he was reduced. And Henderson told him that if he didn't like it, to come into the next room and he'd show him why. 'That's the kind of a man he is!

"If he wasn't responsible for it, he would have defended himself!" the witness exclaimed, apparently referring back to her conversation at her brother's bier.

Frank O'Neil, 5075 Wells avenue, a collector, testified that he arrived at the fire about 7:25 a. m. Firemen were trying to get a hose up a fire escape, he said, and Chief Henderson appeared excited. He said that Chief Henderson cursed his men, saying: "G— dam you, get that hose up there."

Later, the witness said, Chief Henderson was at a hook and ladder truck at the east gate to the college campus. O'Niel said the Chief turned to a crowd of spectators and said: "Don't stand there and gape, G— damn you, give us a lift." The witness said the crowd aleded the Chief, but he was not asked to describe the nature of the assistance rendered.

O'Neil testified he saw Chief Henderson pushing his subordinates about and cursing them. The firemen were pushed so hard, the witness said, that they would stumble away for 10 or 12 feet. He said they did not resent it.

Under cross-examination O'Neil said he knew Chief Henderson by sight. He could not tell others who were near him in the crowd, except possibly John Corrigan, who lived on Wells avenue. In answer to a question by City Counselor Daues, O'Neil testified "that Henderson acted like he had lost his head."

Henderson Denies Charges.

Fire Chief Henderson in a statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter today denied that he had directed profanity at his men in handling the fire and declared his enemies had started a fight upon him because he would not let politicians and political organizations run his department.

"Politicians have tried to run my office and have failed," Chief Henderson said, "and now they are sore and are trying to get back at me."

Indoor Life Makes Fat

TRY OIL OF KOREIN TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN, OR TO REDUCE SUPERFLUOUS FAT.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against over-stoutness. The fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen-carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality, and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any person who is satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. or a good druggist and get a box of oil of korein capsules and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, improved digestion and a return of the old energy; footsteps become lighter and the skin less flabby in appearance as superfluous fat disappears.

Oil of korein is inexpensive, cannot injure, and heals the digestion. Any person who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.—ADV.

GERMAN ARMY BENT ON FINISHING RUMANIA

Central Powers Are Pushing Foe Back to Within 15 Miles of Country's Summer Capital.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

(Copyright, 1916, by Press Pub. Co.)

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—The central Powers have more than 875 miles of front to defend against the vastly superior numbers of the allies, reinforced with ammunition delivered by more than half the industrial world. Its troops have been battered by close to 2,000,000 British and French, and between 5000 and 8000 cannon on the narrow Somme front since June 24. Sarrail is pressing from Saloniki and the Russians are pounding the front in the east.

Yet, Hindenburg and Ludendorff appear to have checkmated the allies again, at least to the extent of enabling the Germans and Hungarians to take a vigorous offensive against the latest addition to their foes—Rumania.

Gen. von Falkenhayn, with the German and Austrian wing, Saturday night, took Kronstadt. Last night his advance guard was pressing hard upon the retreating Rumanians near the border station of Predeal, within 15 miles of Sinaia, the Rumanian summer capital, where are located the King and Queen's palace and many villas of the aristocracy of Bucharest.

Since the disastrous defeat of the Rumanians at Hermannstadt, Gen. von Falkenhayn has been pressing the second Rumanian army with vigor. The Rumanians attempted to make a stand in the Forest of Ghosts, but finding the Germans and Austro-Hungarians encircling them, found their way out. The entire second Rumanian army is reported by aviators to be in full retreat.

The distance which separates Gen. von Falkenhayn from Bucharest is approximately 80 miles, only a few miles more than the Germans and Hungarians have covered in the last five days. In comparison with this the distance of less than 15 miles of progress made by the combined Anglo-French armies in the Somme in three and one-half months seems indeed small.

Rumania's situation could indeed quickly become serious. The Germans and Austro-Hungarians already are holding Rothenthurm (Red Tower) Pass, near Hermannstadt. Without assuming to know anything of the plan of operations, the conclusions seem justified that the Germans are determined to dispose of Rumania. So far, neither the terrific batterings on the Somme nor the desperate efforts of the Rusisans are diverting Hindenburg and Ludendorff, who are literally keeping the allies in a deadly clinch, while trying to finish the new foe. If successful they will place the central Powers in a much better position strategically and in the matter of food than before Rumania's entrance into the war.

The present situation has many possibilities. The near future will determine whether the allies can do anything to save Rumania, or will be forced to look on. It recalls Count von Hertling's prediction to me, that no matter what happened, Rumania would be dragged under the wheels.

German staff circles estimate that one-third of Rumania's army is out of commission. Unconfirmed reports via Denmark and Switzerland tell of terrible conditions in the Rumanian hospitals service, which is reported to be breaking down and inadequate.

Premier Bratiano and former Premier Jonescu, who told me in an interview in May, 1915, that Rumania would join the allies, are reported to be constantly surrounded by guards for fear of the anger of the people.

ORGANIZATION FIGHTING UNIONS ATTACKS WILSON

Adamson Law Has Emboldened Mob Spirit, Says Citizens Industrial Association.

Organized labor, Congress and the President are vigorously denounced by George J. Tansey, chairman of the Executive and Finance Committees of the Citizens' Industrial Association of St. Louis, in an appeal to members of that organization for contributions to fight the labor movement. Tansey asserts in the letter that the passage of the Adamson law has emboldened the mob spirit in every section of the country, and that force is now ruling the country in the most brutal, despotic aid ruinous manner ever known.

The Citizens' Industrial Association was organized in St. Louis by the late James W. Van Cleave, a leading member of the American Association of Manufacturers, to wage war upon union labor. Tansey, the chairman of the Executive and Finance Committees, is president of the St. Louis Transfer Co., which is closely allied with the railroads entering St. Louis. Oliver B. Root is president of the association. The members of the Finance Committee, other than Tansey, as shown by the letterhead, are H. L. Parker, Edwards Whitaker, Richard McCulloch, A. J. Siegel and Henry Wood.

Labor in Defiant Rebellion.

"Organized labor," Tansey said in the letter, "is in open and defiant rebellion against our Government. It demands for itself more than is embraced within the rights of general citizenship. Its attitude is opposed to law and order. It extorts from our Government, by threats, the most vicious and outrageously unfair piece of legislation that has ever been enacted by a Congress and approved by a President. It then shakes its fist in the face of the United States Supreme Court threatening it with destruction if it dares declare the legislation unconstitutional.

"The force that is now ruling this country is the most brutal, despotic and ruinous ever known. It is selfish, greedy, blindly ignorant and conscienceless. It has been promoted by hired agitators. It has been encouraged by office-seeking public men. Business and ambition have been murdered by it. It now seeks to murder the Republic, will it be permitted to do so?

"We have had too many expert politicians, and too few political experts. It is the cause of our present evil conditions. Patriotism alone, not party politics, will save the country.

"Emboldened Mob Spirit."

"You, today, see the result of the passage of the Adamson law in every section of our country. It emboldened the mob spirit. How far that spirit will go depends upon the decent, respectable, law abiding men of our country.

"Will you assist us for the coming year, as in the past, to the extent of $10?"

There is added this postscript: "Our legal department is prepared to take care of all court cases arising out of labor troubles, and this service, with some exceptions, will be rendered free of charge to all our members and contributors to our work."

5500 Wilcon Contributions in Day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Henry Morgenthau, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Committee, yesterday made public a list of contributors to the campaign for the day, showing that 5500 persons had sent in $35,309 to help re-elect President Wilson. These contributions came from every state. The largest contribution was $1000 and the smallest $1.

MAN KILLS WIFE AND ENDS OWN LIFE IN THEIR HOME

Boarder Says Woman Had Upbraided Husband for Drinking and Working Irregularly.

Joseph Walevich, 25 years old, shot and killed his wife, Emma, 26 years old, and then shot and killed himself about 6:30 o'clock last night, during a quarrel in their rooms in a tenement at 909A North Eighteenth street.

Walevich began shooting at his wife while they both sat at the supper table and while she was upbraiding him for drinking, according to Stephen Walevich, a boarder in the home but not related to Joseph, was was also at the table. He shot her three times in the head and breast. She fell on the floor of the porch. Then he turned the revolver on himself and fired two shots into his own head, falling dead beside her.

Stephen Walevich told the police Mrs. Walevich quarrelled with her husband over his drinking and the fact that he had not been working steadily. She complained at the table, the boarder said, that she was being forced to wear old clothing because her husband worked irregularly and spent most of what he earned for drink.

Walevich replied, Stephen said, that he had bought a new suit of clothes and a revolver and had just brought them home with him. The woman continued to upbraid him and he suddenly produced the revolver.

"Hands up" he cried to his wife.

Mrs. Walevich raised her hands above her head and in terrified tones began to plead with her husband not to shoot. He laughed and as she started to rise to leave the table, still holding her hands above her head, he fired. The bullet struck her in the breast and with a scream she ran from the room onto the porch, with him following and shooting.

Mrs. Walevich had been married before and divorced her husband because he drank. She has a son, Roy, 8 years old, by her first marriage. The boy is living with relatives in Stickney, Mo.

On a dresser in the bedroom of the Walevich home the police found a card on which had been scrawled on one side the words, "Forget and forgive your hubby, Joe—he will always be good to his darling baby." On the reverse side, in a woman's hand, was written, "Forget, and forget becomes to be a joke."

Walevich was a window cleaner. His wife had been employed in a hospital. Policies for insurance amounting to $829 on the lives of both were found in the home.

TELLS WHY PRESIDENT FAVORED ADAMSON LAW

Secretary of Labor Says Executive Made Thorough Investigation of 8-Hour Day Question.

William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, delivered two speeches in St. Louis last night, one to laboring men at New Club Hall, Thirteenth street and Chouteau avenue, and the other at the Arlington School, Burd and Cote Brilliante avenues. In his speech to the labor men, Secretary Wilson discussed the Adamson law and the attitude of the Wilson administration toward the workingman.

He declared that President Wilson did not surrender to the railway brotherhoods, nor to anyone else but that he made an investigation which demonstrated that the eight-hour day was right.

Furnished President With Data.

He said that his department furnished President Wilson with information showing that more than 600,000 coal miners in the United States have been working on an eight-hour basis for many years. The data showed that all the building trades in the larger cities have an eight-hour day; that many shops and factories are on an eight-hour basis; that every great city in the United States has established an eight-hour day; that State Legislatures have enacted eight-hour laws, and that Congress has extended the eight-hour law until it applies to nearly all Government departments, to contractors and subcontractors on Government work.

"The trouble with Hughes is that he did not stop to investigate far enough to know that there had been scores of investigations of the eight-hour-day proposition," Secretary Wilson said. With all of the information on the subject in his hands, President Wilson asked the railroads to accept the eight-hour day as a basis of compensation for railroad employes and that the subject of what should be paid for overtime, if any, sholud be submitted to a commission selected by the President, to observe and report upon the operations of the eight-hour day. The railroad brotherhoods accepted, but the railroad managers rejected the proposition.

Went to Congress for Help.

"If the President had withdrawn at this stage, he would have been accused of surrendering to the railroads. But he went to Congress for help, and Congress passed the eight-hour law. When Mr. Hughes attacks the law, he has to attack a majority of the Republicans in the lower house of Congress who voted for the bill."

After Secretary Wilson spoke, W. A. Wheeling, representing the local railway men, made a speech, attacking Hughes' labor record while he was Governor of New York.

Wheeling read a report on Hughes' labor record submitted by the railroad brotherhoods with headquarters at Albany, in which it was brought out that Hughes vetoed a bill providing for vestibules on street cars. Wheeling declared that this veto showed that Hughes was not in sympathy with the workingman.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

LETTER BY THE POPE TELLS OF EFFORTS TOWARD PEACE

Principal Task at Present Is to Soften the Animosity Between Belligerent Nations.

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 10.—A Cologne dispatch says that the Pope has addressed a letter to the German Bishops through Cardinal von Hartmann declaring that although his efforts for peace are at present unsuccessful, he is endeavoring to soften the violent animosity between the belligerent peoples.

"Our bitter grief," writes the Pontiff, "over the frightful bloodshed is increased by the fact that our repeated efforts for peace encounter, on the part of some, contemptible attempts to cast suspicion on our motives, by others open rejection. We wish, however, while steadfastly awaiting peace, to lighten to some little extent at least, by all the means in our power, the heavy burden which the war entails.

"The most important task today is an effort to end that animosity between the members of the various nations, now sharpened through war but decreased by mutual works of Christian mercy."

WOMAN AND MAN KILLED

Two Men Also Mortally Wounded in Battle With Alleged Moonshiners.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Tenn., Oct. 10.—A fight in the Cumberland Mountains near the Kentucky line was reported today from Jamestown between alleged bootleggers and a force under Sheriff Livingston of Fentress County, in which Mrs. Huddleston and Schuyler Flicks were killed and Allen Huddleston and Clifton Beaty were mortally wounded. Sherman Crabtree, a Deputy Sheriff, was slightly wounded.

The reports say that Sheriff Livingston with a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Huddleston yesterday met her party with a wagon of liquor on a mountain road and that when they were ordered to surrender they opened fire with rifles. The Sheriff returned the fire.

SLEEPS IN ALLEY—IS RUN OVER

Hose Wagon Backs Over Legs of Slumbering Man.

Alfred McCullough, 41 years old, of 1111 North Seventh street, made himself a pallet last night in the alley adjoining the fire engine house on Ninth street, between Market and Chestnut streets. He was sound asleep when the company returned from a fire at 11:15 p. m., and the hose wagon in backing into the alley ran over his legs. He was taken to the city hospital.

WHEAT SHORTAGE SENDS UP PRICE OF FLOUR

St. Louis Millers Say Only Exportation Embargo Can Remedy High Cost.

Although the price of flour is higher than it has been in many years, St. Louis millers today said that it was certain to go much higher unless the Government places an embargo upon the exportation of wheat and flour.

This condition results from the Government's forecast of this year's wheat production, which is the smallest since 1904. The winter and spring crops are estimated at 607,000,000 bushels, which is 400,000,000 bushels under last year's record-breaking wheat crop. Millers say that unless the drain of foreign countries on our market is stopped there will be a wheat shortage in the United States that may send flour prices up many dollars a barrel.

Flour today is quoted by grocers at from $3.25 to $3 a barrel. This is an advance of from $3 to $4 a barrel since August, 1914, when the war began. A barrel of flour weighs 196 pounds. It takes about 4½ bushels of good wheat to make a barrel of flour. Thus, when wheat advances 1 cent a bushel, flour advances 4½ cents a barrel. But the millers say the wheat this year is of such poor quality that it requires about 7 bushels to make a barrel of flour.

In August, 1914, the best grades of flour were selling at $5 a barrel. Since then the heavy demands of the countries at war for wheat and flour have caused a gradual rise in prices. By January of this year flour had risen to $6.25 a barrel, and the top price was reached last week, when it was quoteod at $9.

"Where the price will go, only conditions will determine," said E. D. Tilton, vice president of the Stanard-Tilton Milling Co. "We have sufficient wheat for our own use, but unless an embargo is put on its exportation, we cannot hope for lower prices. We paid $1.70 a bushel for wheat a few weeks ago, the highest price we have paid since I've been in the business—25 years. The price of wheat, of course, fixes the price of flour."

And bakers say the price of flour fixes the size and price of the loaf of bread.

Increase in Oil Prices.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 10.—Continuing their efforts to bring to the refineries the vast quantities of crude oil now in the hands of producers, the principal purchasing agencies today, at the opening of the market, announced an increase o, 10 cents a barrel for the higher-priced grades, and 5 cents for heavy oil.

Germany Interns Rumanians.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—British interned civilians now have as companions Rumanians residing in Germany, whom the German Government is placing in concentration camps. Rumania agreed at the outbreak of hostilities not to intern Germans, but later interned them as "a temporary measure of safety."

FILM HERE SHOWS AMERICANS' WAR AMBULANCE WORK

Will Be Exhibited at Victoria Theater Oct. 27 for Hospital Benefit.

The work being done by American young men, most of them college students, in helping to care for the French wounded, is shown vividly in the film, "Our American Boys in the European War," which is to be displayed at the Victoria Theater Oct. 27 for the benefit of two wards in the Neuilly Hospital, which are supported by funds obtained by a St. Louis committee. An advance showing of the film for the committee and newspaper reporters was given at King's Theater last night, following the close of the regular performance.

Beside exhibiting the work of the American ambulances and their drivers, the film shows the Franco-American Flying Corps on the ground and in the air and parts of the French army on review, with Gen. Joffre and President Poincare. The film was presented to the American Ambulance Service by the French Government in recognition of the splendid services rendered by its members and is being handled by the Triangle Film Corporation.

Actual Fighting Shown.

The titles of the different scenes, it was announced, were taken from a letter written by an American ambulance driver. The first scene is an inspection of the 20 motor ambulances stationed at a village in Lorraine. They are American built cars of familiar type. Then the busy work begins. The ambulances are off for the front, passing through ruined and depopulated towns and along roadways where the trees are shattered by shell fire. The ambulances may not go nearer than 500 yards to the firing line, but the ambulance men must go wherever the wounded are, and one scene, which must have been taken at the utmost peril to the photographer, shows the front line trenches, with the German trenches but 20 yards distant and with the French hurling hand grenades. No closer or more striking picture of trench warfare than this one has been seen in St. Louis.

The conveying of the wounded, in two wheeled carts, from the trenches to the ambulances, is in the line of shell fire, a chance which the carriers and the wounded men alike have to take. Each car holds three men. The wounded are hurried first to temporary dressing rooms, then to dressing stations and the base hospitals. "Speed counts" is the appropriate line displayed here. Speed cannot save all the lives, however, for a cemetery is passed, where lie the men who died in the temporary dressing station or on the road near it. This station is a mere dugout, but it serves its purpose.

The care given a shattered German prisoner, whom some of the Frenchmen, not so badly wounded, gave precedence over themselves, is an incident of the dressing station. The base hospital, its windows shielded with logs against shell fragments, is next displayed.

Unwounded French soldiers, on parade and at leisure, make up an interesting part of the film. A religious service, where the American ambulances stand behind the altar, and a theatrical performance, where a burlesque of "Carmen" is improvised, are two of the scenes.

Aviators in Flight.

In the views of the Franco-American Flying Corps, the individual members are posed, including Capt. Thenault, Lieut. Thaw, Sergt. Cowdin, Sergt. Prince, Sergt. Hall, Corporal McConnell, Corporal Rockwell and Corporal Chapman. The last two named have been killed in action. The flight of a flock of machines toward the German lines is so nearly simultaneous that, for a moment, they are seen in an aerial swarm.

As compared with war films previously shown here, these are remarkable for their clearness. There is also an almost entire absence of any effect of posing, except in the few individual posed pictures. Elmer McNeill Bostwick, who lately returned from France, where he was engaged in a service similar to that of the American Ambulance Corps, saw the film last night, and he will talk on his experiences when the film is shown at the Victoria Theater.

CHINESE PRESS ALARMED OVER JAPAN'S DEMANDS

New Tokio Cabinet Expected to Adopt Aggressive Attitude Following Clash at Cheng Chiatung.

PEKIN, Oct. 10.—The Chinese press expresses alarm at the insistent manner in which Japan is pressing the demands made in consequence of the recent clash between Chinese and Japanese troops at Cheng Chiatung, Manchuria. The newspapers voice the fear that the new Japanese Cabinet will adopt an aggressive attitude.

Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister, visited the Foreign Office yesterday and discussed with Chen Chin Tao, Chinese Minister of Finance, the Cheng Chiatung demands.

The Japanese seek the right to station police at such places as Tokio considers necessary for protection and control of Japanese residents. They also demand the employment of Japanese police advisers in Southern Manchuria and Eastern and Inner Mongolia.

NIGHT RIDERS SHOOT WOMAN

Planter's Wife Wounded as She Tries to Identify Men.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Cecil Mattoon, wife of a prominent cotton grower near here, last night was shot through the body and seriously wounded as she stood near a window trying to identify members of a band of masked night riders who had attacked the Mattoon home. Mattoon returned the fire of the band as the horsemen rode around his home.

Four men, said to have been among those who recently warned Mattoon that his employment of negroes in the harvest of cotton must cease, have been arrested by the Sheriff.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THIS HABIT AS WELL AS THE MEN

Don't eat bite of breakfast until you drink a glass of hot water.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—ADV.

UNION PACIFIC HEAD IS OUT FOR WILSON

R. S. Lovett Says He Will Use All His Influence for President's Re-Election.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Robert S. Lovett, head of the Union Pacific system, in an interview printed in the New York Times this morning comes out for Woodrow Wilson and says that he will use all his influence for the President's re-election.

Lovett believes that the President made a mistake in the railroad strike matter, but he says:

"We all make mistakes, and men must be judged by the average of achievements, not by one act out of many which go to make up a notable career.

"My firm conviction is that Wilson has more really great achievements to his credit than most Presidents who have preceded him.

"I am not prepared to believe that business men are lacking in appreciation for what he has done for business.

"What President has shown more loyal and consistent personal and official friendship for every form of legitimate business and enterprise; how refreshingly free from demagogy every utterance of his upon the subject has been. Even the railroads, the favorite field of political exploitation, have received justice and fairness at his hands, except in the eight-hour controversy.

"And let us not forget what we owe Mr. Wilson for the present unexampled industrial prosperity of the country."

Judge Lovett cites the fact that both parties, Democratic and Republican, alike had declared for a revision of the tariff and for a revision downward, but the Taft revision turned out to be a revision upward.

"Wilson fulfilled his promise," says Lovett, "and tariff taxation of the consumer was reduced. No one can truthfully charge him with any favoritism in framing it."

Referring to the European policy of President Wilson, Lovett says:

"His management of our relations to the European war situation is the greatest and most brilliant case in our diplomatic history. He maintained our rights and our honor with unfailing firmness and put our case with such clearness and force and logic that the most arrogant nation had to yield, while all the neutral nations of the world applauded."

Lovett concludes his interview with this statement:

"If Wilson is defeated there will be more rejoicing in Berlin over this triumph of Pan-Germanism against real Americanism than there would be over the winning of a battle or the capture of a great city, even Verdun."

HUGHES OUTLINES POLICY ON MAILS AND BLACKLIST

Says at Philadelphia His Party Would Uphold Legitimate Commerce.

TALKS ON MEXICO

Declares U. S. Has Had Intermittent Peace and War, Both Without Honor.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Charles E. Hughes left Philadelphia today for Hagerstown, Md., and Baltimore on his westward trip. He had only two speeches on today's program, the first to be delivered at Hagerstown, shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the second tonight in the Fifth Regiment Armory at Baltimore, where the Democratic National convention of 1912 was held.

The nominee, in a speech here last night, outlined the Republican party program in two respects as follows:

"We do not propose to tolerate any improper interference with American property, with American mails or with legitimate commercial intercourse.

"No American who is exercising only American rights shall be put on any blacklist by any foreign nation."

Won't Discuss U-Boats.

Early in the day Hughes had authorized the issuance of this statement:

"Mr. Hughes was asked today for his views with respect to the present submarine situation. He refused to discuss it. He said he was not in control of official agencies and was not in receipt of official information. He said further that he had no desire to embarrass the administration in dealing with any current matters as to which the administration had the whole responsibility."

Hughes' attack on the administration foreign and Mexican policies was couched in more vigorous terms than any he has heretofore employed.

"The administration asks for a vote of confidence," he said, "but its defenders certainly shout in protest when its record is being critically examined. When its humiliating failure to safeguard American rights is held up to deserved condemnation it seeks to escape by asserting that its conduct had no alternative but war; that to disapprove of its conduct is to favor war."

Hughes characterized that as an "astounding assertion" which could not avail to "divert attention from the serious errors committed."

"We all desire peace," he said, "but we desire peace to be honorably maintained by correct policies, by firm insistence on known rights, by deserving and holding the esteem of the world. We have not been kept out of war; we have not enforced our rights; we have sacrificed our honor."

Act after act by the administration in its dealings with Mexico was cited by the nominee to uphold his contention that the country had not been kept out of war, but that it had waged "an ignoble, personal war" against Huerta in the days of his power. John Lind's alleged authorization to say that "Huerta would be put out," the occupation of Vera Cruz, the sending of the punitive expedition into Mexico and the failure of the American troops to utilize Mexican railways were points upon which Hughes touched.

"Has America forgotten Carrizal?" he asked. "What was that? Peace or war?"

One "brave officer," the nominee said he had been informed, "stricken with pneumonia, was compelled to travel four days in an army wagon over rough roads in intense suffering and died in the camp to which he was thus removed." This followed the "curt refusal" by Carranza authorities to allow the American troops to use the railroads.

"Peace Without Honor."

"We have not been kept out of war," Hughes repeated. "We have had intermittent peace without honor and intermittent war without honor. We cannot say now in what particular sort of mess we shall find things next March, but this much is certain: If intrusted with responsibility, we shall be able to have it understood that there will be no meddling in matters which do not concern us; that we shall not simply talk of the rights of other states, but shall observe them; and, further, that at all events the lives and property of American citizens will be protected."

After denouncing the handling of the Mexican situation, Hughes passed to the European war, the outbreak of which, he said, "found us with prestige seriously impaired."

"Again the administration failed to perform the primary duty to safeguard American lives," the candidate declared. "The administration was not convincing; its words were many but ineffective, because it was not believed that they would be backed by deeds. Had this Government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said 'strict accountability,' we meant precisely what we said, and that we should vindicate that position, I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania.

"We propose to protect American rights, American property and American trade according to our rights under international law. This is a policy of peace, not of war. It is a policy which assures respect. We desire to maintain the integrity of international law and the rights under international law. This is a policy of peace, not of war. It is a policy which assures respect. We desire to maintain the integrity of international law and the rights of neutral states. But we shall achieve nothing in service to humanity unless we maintain our self-respect and the dignity of American citizenship. That is the true path of national peace and security."

Hughes reiterated his declaration that a protective tariff is necessary to safeguard American industry in the days when Europe will be at peace. He then touched on a statement contained in President Wilson's speech Saturday at Shadow Lawn.

"A remark was made the other day," Hughes said, "that I had the honor of representing a number of people who did not think alike. There was some suggestion of commiseration for one so unfortunate as to be in that position. My friends, in this great question of protecting American industry we have a united support and a determination which will be effective. When we look on the other side, however, what do we find? Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones. It would be difficult to ascertain what is the principle of our opponents with respect to the protection of American industries."

Reviews Hatters' Case.

"What about the Danbury hatters' case?" a man in the balcony shouted.

Hughes reviewed the history of the litigation and said: "Now, I stand here to say that whether as a Judge or, if I am elected, as a President, on any question coming before me I shall enforce the law of the land, it makes no difference whether the question is raised by labor or capital. If the laws are not right, the remedy is to change them. It is the business of Judges to enforce the laws as they are. And it is often the business of Presidents to enforce the laws."

The station was packed when the Hughes special arrived here. The 10-minute ride to the opera house was through crowded streets. Every seat was taken and hundreds were standing when the nominee entered.

Louise Dresser and Lew Dockstader at the Columbia.

Louise Dresser, looking sweet and pretty and singing some new songs and some old ones, and Lew Dockstader, without his familiar make-up of burnt cork, are the headliners at the Columbia Theater this week. Dockstader appears in the role of a political boss and tels his audience some more or less truths about the political situation. Next to the headliners in favor come the Primrose Four, the best singing quartet in vaudeville. The rest of the bill runs from some Japanese children who do American songs and dances, to moving pictures and trained dogs and horses.

EUROPEAN WAR HAS PARALYZED GERMANY'S TOY INDUSTRY

Trade Which Was $35,000,000 in 1913 Has Dropped Off Two-Thirds.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 10.—Perhaps no single industry in Germany has suffered so much from the war as that of toy making. In the last peace year Germany's toy trade aggregated $35,000,000, of which more than $25,000,000 was export, and the larger part to America. Since the war this figure has dropped nearly two-thirds. Before the war not less than 100,000 persons were employed in toy making, mostly in Saxony, around Nuremberg.

It is said that 1500 kinds of German toys are now being made in England and are being sold at the same prices as the original articles. In France the trade is being pushed rapidly and one factory alone made over $1,000,000 worth of dolls. A French bank has been specially organized to promote the interests of the toy trade.

MUD HEN PUTS OUT MAN'S EYE

South Dakota Farm Hand Pecked by Captured Fowl.

CLARK, S. D., Oct. 10.—William Milasus, employed by a Clark County farmer, lost one of his eyes as the result of being attacked by a mud hen. Another of the men employed on the farm captured a live hen and handed it to Milasus.

The bird made a lunge at Milasus' eye and so seriously injured it that the sight was permanently lost.

$25,000 Mail Theft Case Dismissed.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Oct. 10.—The case against Charles B. Oldfield, charged with stealing $25,000 from the United States mails was thrown out of court yesterday. Oldfield was one of the railroad mail clerks through whose hands a registered package containing $25,000, from Chicago to Pasadena, Cal., was said to have passed in 1912. The package disappeared enroute.

TO END CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—ADV.

ENGLISH BISHOPS AT CONVENTION HERE

Noted Episcopalian Prelates to Attend Conference Which Opens Tomorrow.

The Bishop of London, the Bishop of Worchester and other Episcopal notables from abroad are expected to arrive in St. Louis this afternoon to attend the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, which opens at Moolah Temple tomorrow morning.

Every train arriving in St. Louis is bringing Bishops, rectors and laymen to the convention. Among the arrivals at Hotel Jefferson this morning was Bishop Thomas Gailor of Tennessee, who was an intimate friend of the late J. P. Morgan.

The joint commission of the convention has arranged to conduct, in co-operation with the social service commission of the diocese of Missouri, an open forum daily during the noon recess in a tent near Moolah temple.

Following set addresses which will be made there will be an opportunity for questions and brief speeches, the aim being to provide a "clearing house" for the discussion of various aspects of the social problem in relation to the business of the church.

Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster of Connecticut, chairman of the joint commission, will preside at the opening session Thursday, when Dean Bell will speak.

These meetings are to be considered an integral part of the convention program, but have no relation to another series of meetings under the auspices of the Church Socialistic League, which is a voluntary, not official body unrelated to either the joint commission or to the local dipcesan commission.

Among the speakers in the Forum will be: Bishop Paul Jones of Utah, who will speak on "Christianity and Force;" Dean Bernard I. Bell, Fond du Lac, Wis., "What Is Social Service?" the Rev. M. M. Stires, D. D., of New York, "The Problem of the Unemployed;" the Rev. J. H. Melish of Brooklyn, "The Rise of the Workers;" the Rev. W. Russell Bowie of Richmond, Va., "Patriotism and the Kingdom of God;" Dean Robert K. Massie of Lexington, Ky., "Commercialized Vice."

TWO-MAN BRITISH AEROPLANE CARRIES THREE MEN 90 MILES

In Raid on Turks One Car at 100 Feet Dropped Bomb on Turkish Machine.

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Oct. 10.—British aviators claim a record feat performed during the recent raid on the Turkish aerodrome at El Arish.

During the raid one of the pilots was forced to land several miles west of El Arish, his machine having been damaged by shrapnel. While trying to repair his engine, he was discovered by another British machine, carrying a pilot and an observer, which landed beside him to render assistance. It was found that the damaged machine was past repair and the aviators burned it to prevent it from falling into the hands of the Turks. The problem then was whether the rescuing aeroplane would be able to carry the three men away. All three climbed in, the rescued man crowding in on top of the observer. Several attempts were made to get away, but the ground was bad and the load too heavy. Finally one of the aviators found a stretch of hard ground, to which the machine was taken, and finally it got into the air with its big load.

Ninety miles across the desert the three men flew until they reached safety at Kantara. It is claimed that no two-passenger machine has ever before flown ninety miles with three persons aboard and that the rescue is one of the most unusual since the beginning of the war.

The El Arish raid also resulted in another unusual feat. The Turks were attacked by British machine gun fire from a height of 200 feet and one British aviator descended to within 100 feet of a Turkish aeroplane which was standing on the ground surrounded by seven or eight mechanics, and dropped a bomb which blew machine and men to pieces.

OBJECTS TO MAN NAMED FOR PANAMA ATTORNEY-GENERAL

American Minister's Protests Based on Judge's Alleged Anti-American Acts.

PANAMA, Oct. 10.—Protests by William Jennings Price, American Minister to Panama, against the appointment of Judge Demosthenes Arosemena as Attorney-General of the republic have caused considerable comment here.

Price's objections to Judge Arosemena are based on the latter's alleged anti-American acts, dating back to the time when, as Superior Judge of the Criminal Court, he dealt with the cases of Panama policemen who shot unarmed American soldiers on the streets of Panama on July 4, 1912, and on two occasions in the spring of 1915.

In the case of the Fourth of July riots, Judge Arosemena delivered an opinion in which he denounced the conduct of the American soldiers and found that only one of the score of policemen arraigned was guilty of misconduct. This one had been dead about a month at the time the opinion was delivered. In subsequent cases the American Minister insisted that Judge Arosemena be not allowed on the bench.

Judge Arosemena last year published, under the nom de plume of "Leo Franck," an arraignment of the American conduct of affairs on the isthmus in which he made caustic comments on Goethals and other American officials.

The Busy Bee Luncheon and Tea Rooms, 417 N. Seventh street, will be open during the fall and winter season until 8 o'clock p. m. Special afternoon Teas served from 3 to 5 o'clock.

DEFENDS MAN NAMED BY HUSBAND IN SUIT

Wife of Art Collector Admits Literary Critic of Life Packed Her Trunk.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Anne Belleville Hunter, wife of Frederick William Hunter, art collector, plaintiff in the $50,000 alienation suit against his former friend and classmate, John Barrett Kerfoot, literary critic of Life, resumed the witness stand before Supreme Court Justice Cohalan and a jury and stoutly defended Kerfoot.

"During the 20 years that Kerfoot was a member of your household did he ever contribute anything for rent, board or lodging?" asked Attorney Norwood, counsel for Hunter.

"No," admitted Mrs. Hunter.

"When he went abroad whose money did he use?"

"His wife's," answered Mrs. Hunter. "She left it to him."

Mrs. Hunter admitted that her husband gave $300 a month to her to run the house and $100 for her personal expenses. She said that she in turn gave $117.50 a month to Kerfoot and that he purchased the meat, groceries and vegetables. He never made an accounting of the money he received, she added.

"Who bought the wines and cigars," asked Norwood.

"Mr. Hunter."

"Who bought the cocktails?"

"Mr. Kerfoot sometimes bought cocktails."

Mrs. Hunter did not know whether it was Kerfoot's own money that paid for these or the cash Hunter gave for running the house. She admitted that Kerfoot packed her trunks when she left her husband.

During the testimony Hunter sat at the counsel table and glared at his wife. Mrs. Hunter has been attended throughout the trial by six women, who listen with the closest attention to the testimony.

Mrs. Hunter testified Hunter laughed at her one night after he had taken a younger and more attractive woman to the theater. She said that one day after he had purchased a $1200 picture she asked him for $25 to go to Atlantic City "to recover her disposition" in a week's vacation and he informed her he could not afford to give her the money.

A letter from Mrs. Hunter to Hunter was introduced in evidence. It read:

"I must make you realize that my decision to leave you is final. I am not going to live with you again. After seeing Norwood, how do you propose to arrange it?"

"AUNT MARY" IS REJUVENATED

In This She Is Assisted by the Park Theater Company.

Sarah Edwards, as the kind old spinster herself, presented "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" at the Park Theater last night. Several other members of the Park Opera Company took turns running upon and off the stage singly or in groups, but it could not be noticed that any of them helped along the anticipated restoration of youth, unless it was happy Florence Mackie, posing as a maid to win the old lady's love, or sprightly Billy Kent as a college youth—"the man who invented measles."

The little show, made to appear as a musical comedy by the introduction of several musical numbers for the chorus, promises to become a good evening's entertainment if the other members can come nearer attaining the speed of these three.

Aluminum Cooking Utensils Gaining Great Popularity.

Aluminum utensils for cooking have gained great popularity with housewives during recent years and because of their many advantages over old-fashioned iron pots and kettles and earthen and enamel ware, they are rapidly supplanting the latter in modern kitchens.

Aside from the advantage in less weight afforded by the use of aluminum utensils, especially in comparison with iron utensils, their use removes the danger of enamel chipping and getting into the cooked food. Aluminum utensils heat quicker than other kinds and they will not rust.

Ozark Mothers Used to Be Afraid to Go to Bed at Night

Now Sleep Soundly Since They Have Found a Sure Preventive For Croup.

Many mothers, besides those of Ozark, Mo., have been afraid to sleep at night for fear of being awakened by that dread croupy cough. Mrs. H. H. Givan and Mrs. J. J. Cave, both of Ozark, have found, in common with many other Missouri mothers, that a jar of Vap-O-Rub in the house insures a good night's sleep.

Vap-O-Rub is the external treatment for all forms of croup or cold troubles, introduced here from the South last winter. It is in salve form and you just rub it over the throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. The body warmth releases antiseptic vapors that are inhaled with each breath, loosening the phlegm, and, in addition, Vick's is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, relieving the tightness and soreness. Croup is usually relieved in fifteen minutes and a good application at night will, in almost every case, prevent a night attack.

But let Mrs. Givan speak for herself. She writes "I have used Vick's Vap-O-Rub on my little girl for croup. I rubbed it on her chest and throat and it is just splendid, and I wasn't afraid to go to bed at night."

Mrs. Cave says—"I find Vap-O-Rub the best thing I have ever used for colds, sore throat, croup and all kinds of skin troubles for children. I could not do without it now, as it saves calling a doctor."

The penetrative quality of Vick's makes it excellent also for inflammations of the skin, such as burns, bruises, itchings, piles and muscular soreness. In these cases, particularly in cases of burns it seems to draw out the inflammation and has a delightfully cooling effect. Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00. The Vick Chemical Company, Greensboro, N. C.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY WHEN CONSTIPATED

Look, mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to consider their own health, consequently their bowels become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—ADV.

AUSTRIA MAKING COTTON TEXTILES FROM PAPER YARN

Fine Cloths, Twine, Flour Bags Are Produced at a Cheap Manufacture Cost.

VIENNA, Oct. 7, via London, Oct. 9.—Paper in the place of cotton has proved of extraordinary value in solving one of Austria-Hungary's greatest economic problems, according to Arthur Kuffler, president of the Government organization controlling cotton consumption.

"The central Powers could use more than a million bales of cotton right now," he said, "but we are able to get along without it if we must. We are getting 5000 to 10,000 bales a month from Turkey. Before the outbreak of the war this amount was much greater, but it has shown a decrease recently owing to the deportation of Armenians who are the principal cotton planters in Asia Minor."

Herr Kuffler showed newspaper men a vast assortment of fabrics made from paper which he said was taking the place of cotton. The articles ranged from flour bags holding 200 pounds to twine. Other textiles were manufactured from a mixture of paper yarn as warp and cotton or wool as filling. They ranged from coarse white goods to a fairly fine cloth. These paper fabrics, after being woven, are treated chemically to make them impervious to water and more durable and pliable.

MAN TAKEN AS ROBBER THROUGH LOST PISTOL

Trail Led Through Five States to Arrest Here for Train Holdup.

Chief of Detectives Allender today gave out the details of the detective work by Chicago postoffice inspectors which led to the capture of James Alexander Medsker, confessed train robber, arrested at the Merchants' Hotel, here last Thursday. The arrest was made through a manufacturer's number on a revolver dropped by one of the three men who participated in the holdup of a train at Ypsilanti, Mich., Sept. 26.

The three robbers, after stopping the train, uncoupled the mail car and robbed it of $700 in cash and jewelry valued at $600. They beat the fireman of the train, who attempted to interfere with the uncoupling of the mail couch.

Revolver Traced.

When the postoffice inspectors arrived on the scene they found the revolver which one of the robbers had lost. The number was noted. They looked up the manufacturer in Massachusetts. He looked up the records and found that the weapon had been sold by his company to a dealer in Salt Lake City.

There the dealer recalled that he had sold the revolver to a railroad switchman, whose name the police have and who has been implicated by Medsker in his confession as one of the men who participated in the robbery. A search for the switchman revealed that he had left Salt Lake City and had gone to Detroit. He was followed there.

In Detroit the postoffice inspectors learned that the switchman had gone to Havana, Ill., where he had been married. They followed and found that the man was not in the town, but his wife was.

They placed a constant watch over the movements of the woman and a few days after their arrival she prepared to leave the town, following the receipt of a letter from Medsker. She was followed to St. Louis and was seen to meet Medsker at Union Station and go with him to the Merchants' Hotel.

Arrested in Hotel.

The local police were notified and the arrest of Medsker followed. Detectives Sullivan, Blake, Callahan and Roach, who made the arrest, will be paid a third of a reward of $4000 offered for the arrest of the robbers by the railroad company and the Government.

The names of both the other men who were with Medsker in the holdup are known to the police. Medsker, when arrested, had in his grip all of the jewelry stolen in the robbery, a black mask made of a piece of silk cut from a woman's stocking and a harmonica, on which, advance descriptions of him had said, he was an expert. He had $100 and the serial numbers of the bills tallied with those of the money taken in the robbery.

LETTER TELLS WHY OSBORNE QUIT AS SING SING WARDEN

He Charges Gov. Whitman and Prison's Superintendent Broke Promises to Him.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—In his letter of resignation to State Superintendent of Prisons Carter, made public here, Warden Osborne said that when he returned to Sing Sing prison last July "it was with the distinct assurance that the wardens of the State prisons were to be permitted full control of the details of the respective institutions under their charge, without being subjected to the annoying and mischievous interference, to say nothing of the scandalous persecution, that made good administration at Sing Sing impossible under your predecessors."

Osborne also said that it was understood the Mutual Welfare League system "would have what it never yet had—a fair and full trial."

"I regret to say that you have not kept faith," Osborne wrote to Superintendent Carter.

The letter closed with an attack on Gov. Whitman, who, Mr. Osborne said, is antagonistic to the new penal system being carried on at Auburn and Sing Sing prisons. The Warden added that Gov. Whitman had broken promises to him and charged that without the Governor's acquiescence charges made against Warden Osborne in Westchester County would never have been initiated.

TAKE SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS SAYS DRUGS ONLY EXCITE THE KIDNEYS

Salts is absolutely harmless to flush your Kidneys and neutralize uric acid, thus ending all Bladder trouble.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—ADV.

ISLAND MEETING FAVORS SALE

Gathering at St. Thomas Unanimously for Transfer to U. S.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Oct. 10.—The sale of the Danish West Indies by Denmark to the United States was unanimously favored by acclamation at a meeting held here Sunday, attended chiefly by working men—laborers and artisans.

This course was favored rather than the institution of reforms under the existing regime, the transfer being held to be the only means of remedying existing unsatisfactory conditions in the islands. A memorial to that effect was handed the delegates who are to go to Copenhagen to present the views of the islanders.

It's not too late for our special funeral spray, $2.50 each. Grimm & Gorly.

PLAN SUGGESTED FOR RECLAIMING TWILIGHT ZONES

Commission Would Redistrict Sections on River Front and Between Grand and 18th.

PICTURES REAL FIGHTING

Ambulances Seen Gathering Wounded Under Fire—Franco-American Flyers in Action.

The City Plan Commission, in the second installment of its 100-page educational booklet, made public today, suggests redistricting as a means of reclaiming the so-called "twilight zones." While these zones are not specifically bounded, it is understood that the sections between the river and Fourth street, and between Eighteenth street and Grand avenue are the texts of the commission's remarks.

Better housing and the grouping of public buildings also are considered in the commission's comprehensive study of the future needs of the city.

The commission thinks that a districting plan in the past would have prevented conditions which have impaired occupancy and values in these neighborhoods, and the adoption of some such regulations now will mitigate the evil, the commission believes. The existence of such districts where they attract the notice of all who come to St. Louis by rail or boat, and of those passing to and from the business center, is deprecated by the commission. Municipal authority and activity are prerequisite to the success of private efforts to rehabilitate these districts, the commission says.

Regulations of the sort necessary to restore old and obviate the deterioration of new districts; the limitation of the height and area of buildings and the segregation of certain industrial activities, the commission contends, are a valid exercise of the police power in the interest of public health, safety and general welfare. The commission expresses the opinion that more stringent rules and restrictions, including those affecting occupancy, are desirable for St. Louis.

A proper plan of districting, the commission says, will help to the solution of another difficult problem, that of housing. The evils traceable to poor housing in St. Louis are not confined to tenements, which until recently, were few, it is asserted. They are said to arise principally from the use by many families of houses designed for occupancy but by one family. Although there have been investigations and strong verdicts against conditions in St. Louis, the present attitude of the public toward the evils and their cure "is lethargic and indifferent," the commission finds. Only an epidemic of a dread disease would arouse a public cry for relief from the present intolerable conditions, the Commission says, but this demand probably would pass with the elimination of the disease. Lack of public interest as much as avarice on the part of private owners is given as the cause of the city's deplorable housing conditions.

Just now, when the evils are not widespread and are capable of improvement, the city should undertake this reform, the commission says. A permanent housing commission is recommended. "Despite building ordinances which are pointed to with great pride by those unfamiliar with conditions, malignant evils are to be found," the commission asserts. The spread of these evils is sure to follow present neglect, it is said.

The commission's present activities relating to housing are stated to be "supervision of new land subdivisions; promotion of the attempt to obtain a city-wide districting plan, and the encouragement of efforts to rehabilitate depopulated districts." As a further step in the same direction the commission announces its intention of encouraging the building of desirable houses at low rental and of fostering the development of "garden suburbs" and better subdivisions.

Preliminary to a correct solution of the housing problem, the commission says, there must be a close co-operation between State and municipal authorities in enforcing ordinances and statutes and the creation of a special "housing department," with private support, if necessary.

After discussing and rejecting suggestions that St. Louis erect its public edifices on the water front, following the example of Cleveland, the commission pronounces in favor of grouping these buildings around the city hall and Municipal Courts and Public Library. Their location is regarded as "fortunate" by the commission because of the proximity of these buildings to the business center.

While St. Louis is credited by the commission with having "an unusually great" percentage of home-owners and large recreational facilities, which are generally used, more parks and playgrounds are deemed indispensable to the correction of housing troubles. The commission favors large public reservations. Those at Chain of Rocks and Jefferson Barracks are described as "the nearest approach" to such reservations, but are not large enough.

Uniformity in the width and materials of sidewalks, and their large mileage are complimented by the commission, and the elimination of poles and wires is said to have gone much farther in St. Louis than is generally believed. Numerous trees are a considerable contribution to the appearance and comfort of streets, the commission points out, and urges a wider planting under the sole direction of the City Forester.

Bill boards are fairly well regulated in St. Louis, the Commission testifies, but it expresses a doubt that "these monstrosities can ever become unobjectionable." Further restrictions on the location should be made, if possible, the commission says. Planting between street car tracks on wide thoroughfares, the use of ornamental poles and light standards, and the creation of plazas where several streets conjoin, are suggested as means of making outdoor St. Louis more attractive.

Reference is made to the attempts to establish a more convenient and sightly entrance to Forest Park at Lindell and King's Highway boulevards, which is mentioned as one of the opportunities (the approaches to Eads Bridge and the Free Bridge being others) for the development of plazas.

"The recent controversy concerning the park entrance makes this a matter of delicate discussion, yet a plan is needed, and the sooner one is adopted the sooner will the controversy end,' the commission says.

It is pointed out that the present entrance has for its main features a large greensward, Grand Drive and Flair Monument. All these should be preserved, the commission says, but the monument could be changed. The demands of traffic dictate the design of the park entrance, it is said.

1500 STUDENTS ESCAPE FROM BURNING BUILDING

Announcing

Autumn Sales Opening

—and Auto Show of Studebaker Closed Cars and Special Bodies

Now in progress at the Studebaker salesrooms, 2215-17 Locust Street, is our Autumn Display of New Model Studebaker Closed Cars and Special Bodies. And it comes just at the time of year when it will interest St. Louis people most—at the very height of the closed car buying season.

A four-passenger Studebaker Coupe, hand finished in a deep, rich shade of olive green, with contrasting dark wheels, comes in for its share of favorable comment. With its graceful curved glass sides and luxurious interior trim, it represents something entirely new in this type of car. It is exclusively original—a car of individuality, of personality. Especially roomy and comfortable, with more vision to the driver and passengers than any other closed car on the market in the gasoline type. Small wonder, indeed, that so many discriminating motorists should favor the Studebaker Coupe—a car equally as well adapted to business use as it is for the theater, shopping and all social purposes.

But the Studebaker Coupe is but a small part of our splendid exhibit — there are Landau-Roadsters, Sedans, and four and six cylinder Touring Cars in exquisite colorings and color combinations. All are the product of Studebaker's Custom Body Department—and every car is built on the big, powerful six-cylinder Studebaker chassis.

The color and varnish work of Studebaker has been famous for over two generations—and it appears at its best on these Studebaker Closed Cars and Special Bodies.

You are invited to attend this Special Exhibit and Autumn Sales Opening—whether you intend to buy a car now or not.

EMERSON "FOUR" IS HERE

AT EAST ST. LOUIS

An Unprecedented Money-Making Opportunity

In the Automobile Manufacturing Industry

$395 F. O. B. NEW YORK

SEE NEW "EMERSON FOUR" CAR AT SHOWROOM, 313 MISSOURI AVENUE, EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL.

There is an opportunity so unique and so remarkable in its profit-earning possibilities that it should awaken the interest of every person to whose attention this announcement comes. It offers an opportunity for you to invest in a sane, clean, conservatively capitalized, economically managed Company a few hundred dollars or less on a most profitable, profit-earning basis.

THE EMERSON "FOUR"

Designed by Robert Craig Hupp, formerly vice-president and general manager of the Hupp Motor Company, is the lowest priced five passenger automobile made. Mr. Hupp, known from one end of the country to the other as a pioneer in the automobile industry, has always been an enthusiast on the low-priced automobile subject. Mr. Hupp, before the Hupp Motor Company was organized, was connected for several years with Henry Ford of the Ford Motor Car, and prior to that, with the Oldsmobile, which was the first low-priced automobile put out in the world.

This new EMERSON "FOUR" designed by Mr. Hupp is really a wonderful looking car, and is far ahead, in our opinion, of any other low-priced automobile on the market.

The estimated net profit of Sixty-Nine Dollars per car beginning in 1917 with a production of thirty thousand cars, shows earnings sufficient to pay more than 20% per annum on the Common Stock of the Company. This undoubtedly means that within the next few months the Common Stock of THE EMERSON MOTORS COMPANY, INC., should have a value of not less than Twenty or Twenty-Five Dollars per share.

We are able to offer, subject to prior sale, and subject to advance without notice, a small block of EMERSON MOTORS Common Stock at Seven Dollars ($7.00) per share (par value, $10.00). This stock is fully paid and non-assessable. Here is your opportunity to put a few hundred dollars or more into an established, going concern, manufacturing a car that is destined to prove one of the biggest successes in the automobile world.

Already the Company has created a demand for more than twice as many cars as was originally planned to make in 1917. There is no limit to the amount of money that this Company can make. It is the right proposition at the right time. The officers and Directors are solid, substantial business men, the Company is legally and properly incorporated, has as its general counsel one of New York's leading lawyers; the books of the Company are audited once each month by the American Audit Company; the Company has a substantial amount of cash in its treasury, no debts of any kind whatever, and it is actively engaged at the present time in manufacturing the first five hundred cars, which is all that will be attempted for the balance of this year.

Plans have been made and contracts are being entered into to insure a production of thirty thousand cars in 1917.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Crime in St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Is it any wonder there is so much crime in our city at present? When one knows a little about the conditions that exist, how can it be otherwise? In many parts of the city there are gangs of thieves and hoodlums, and when any of them are caught red-handed in some crime and locked up, it is only a question of a few hours before they are free again on some bond or other pretext. If they do have to stand trial and are convicted, it is good odds they won't serve long before they are out again on parole or some other excuse. We may ask, how do these things happen? Generally some so-called politician is appealed to or some bondsmen who have influence with some political lawyers or some so-called judges of whom we have had some fine examples lately, who are only too willing to do all they can for these criminals to get their votes. When these crooks know they can get out so easy, is it any wonder they just do the same thing over again and also encourage others to do likewise? It is not always the police who are to blame. Get acquainted with some of them and you will soon find out how helpless they are in most of these cases, and often get the worst of it when trying to do their duty.

How long are we to stand this? I sometimes think if some of these dirty politicians and a few shyster lawyers and so-called Judges were made to feel the public indignation in a practical way, it would be about the surest way to change these deplorable conditions. What do you think about it? CITIZEN.

"Grand Old Promisers."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In view of the fact that Republican administrations, for years past, have been mainly "promises," and now that Mr. Hughes is before the voters again "promising" what the Republicans will do, if returned to power, I think the famous G. O. P., symbolic of that party could easily be interpreted "Grand Old Promisers."

PHIL OSSIFER.

Echoes of the Milk Strike.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Getting around and hearing different opinions of the people regarding the recent milk strike, I thought it would be proper to publish some of the points not thought of unless directly interested.

I was an employe of one of the dairies involved. For nine years I worked every day but four, on account of death in the family. I was compelled to stay home, for which I was promptly docked in my pay. Seven years ago our pay was reduced. I was getting from $65 to $75 a month lately.

Most milkmen are married, in fact they prefer married men, as they say they are more reliable. Always away from home 12 to 14 hours a day; that means eat two meals out daily; responsible for credit that the company finds isn't very good; in fact, most all accounts that are for property owners the driver is responsible for, and at the same time if you don't increase the load, off the job you go. If he don't get what you ordered, the driver is out, if a bottle of milk breaks, the driver pays for it, if anything is stolen from the wagon, the driver pays for it; if your aren't a good delivery man, good bookkeeper and a hustler, you'll owe the company more than what's coming to you.

Don't you think every milkman should earn $100 a month or even more? But that isn't what we asked for. After sending us down to the union hall to take oath eight months ago, and paying the initiation fee for us, they lock us out, and under all conditions refuse to arbitrate, but come to us and beg us to go to work as nonunion men and offer more than our union ever dreamed of asking, but which no man can accept after taking the oath they instructed us to take. In fact, the milk drivers' union would not be today if it hadn't been that the men at one dairy and laboratory company were out around Christmas time, while another dairy gave their men a $5 gold piece for Christmas; that was the cause of the men getting their heads together and organizing.

I can't see why the people stand for some of the things brought about in this strike, such as hiring out-of-town gunmen to come here and shoot down St. Louisans, as they have. I also want to mention that the taxpayers are paying the bookkeepers on the dairy wagons today—the policemen. YOUR MILKMAN.

Campaign Piffle.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As it appears to me, the German-Americans are criticising Mr. Wilson for being too severe with Germany and are supporting Mr. Hughes because he is criticising Mr. Wilson for not being severe enough. "Oscar, sweep out padded cell 1979." SIMP.

LET US KEEP COOL.

"I have no right now to question its willingness to fulfill them" said President Wilson in a statement affirming that the German Government would be held to its promises to the United States and that he would want all the facts before taking any action.

Every sane and fair citizen will agree with the President. There should be no hasty convictions and no prejudgment of Germany's intentions.

It is difficult to conceive a more unbecoming attitude on the part of a public man, particularly an ex-President, than that of Col. Roosevelt, who in his eagerness to indict President Wilson pronounces his submarine policy a failure at the first news of the activity of the German submarines. The interest of the country is swallowed up by his partisan zeal to make a case against Germany's good faith and the President's judicious course.

German submarines have as much right to operate near our shores as British and French war vessels have. So long as the submarines act in accord with international law and respect our rights on the sea we cannot complain. So far there is no evidence of illegal action or of intention to attack American ships. Contrary to Col. Roosevelt's assertion, the President's policy seems to be a success; the Germans are keeping their promises.

Of course, there is danger of complications—there is always danger in submarine attacks. The wrong ship might be sunk or an enemy ship with Americans aboard might be sunk without the precautions required by law. It is unpleasant to have under-sea boats working so close to our shores and interrupting American commerce in the ships of the allies. There is danger that we might become resentful of such interruption, as Europeans have, and fall into a natural passion which would force hostile action.

Let us hope that none of these things will happen. We want peace. The audacity of the German venture, which is in line with other daring and original feats, astonishes and excites the world. It excites us and we are apt to draw quick and unwarranted conclusions. The best thing to do is to keep cool and await the development of the German policy. It may be only a spurt and may pass without trouble.

Fortunately, we have as President of the United States a calm, well-poised, judicious man who is not looking for trouble; who is trying to avoid trouble and who will not bring on war if war can honorably be avoided.

MAN IN HIS CHEAPEST ROLE.

The spectacle of a young girl so besought and harried by suitors that she is compelled to go into hiding is vouchsafed us at Los Angeles, but the romance and exhilaration which the spectacle might induce are forestalled by the explanation that she has just come into a $100,000 inheritance.

The matrimonial bread line is getting longer and longer in this country. It has been but a short time since a mere $10,000 was the recipient of hundreds of "sight-unseen" avowals of love in our own vicinity. The marriage bureaus number thousands upon thousands of male subscribers who seek a fortune by "the easiest way."

The fortune-hunting vagrant without visible means of support who is barely saved from arrest by the possession of a dress suit and a dickey is lowering our vaunted American manhood and especially our chivalry to the European levels—and is it such a wonder that American heiresses sometimes look abroad for husbands who at least have crests and traditions to trade on?

We make submarines for all nations.

SPRINGFIELD'S FALSE CACKLE.

The police power of Springfield, Ill., has been invoked for the suppression of an enemy to society who has been making a noise like an egg-laying hen. Never was police power employed for a more worthy purpose. In times like these a person who cackles like a hen, instilling in the public mind a belief that there is a new egg in the community when there is none, is a male-factor of high degree, who should be squelched for the public good.

This person could cackle so well that the hens of the neighborhood, hearing him, supposed he had laid an egg, a thing he was utterly incapable of doing, and did not take the trouble to lay any themselves, a function for which they are known to be peculiarly fitted by nature and education.

That was bad enough, but it was as a disturber of the public peace that the cackling person incurred repression. When he cackled every householder who kept a hen and some who did not, rushed to the barn for the egg that was presumed to have arrived in the midst. Needless to say, no egg was found. Visions of sudden wealth faded. Distrust was engendered among neighbors, who could not understand why there was no egg where there was so much cackle.

Finally it was discovered that the cackling was done by a human with inhuman proclivities. The police were called in. Now every cackle heralds the advent of an egg and prosperity and tranquility abide again at Springfield, Ill.

CHAMPION OF PLAYED-OUT THEORIES.

As a gladiatorial contest, the fight which that fine, old, becrusted railroad magnate, President Milton Smith of the Louisville & Nashville, is making against the inevitable is rather interesting.

He is a survival of the days of railroad magnates of strong, imperious personality. Those were the days when railroads were largely considered an individual asset of the men who created them or managed them. The dual theory as to railroad property was construed according as it might be advantageous to the railroad's interests. They were public utilities when they wanted to invoke the doctrine of eminent domain or to obtain subsidies of land or money and other public favors. But they were property under private ownership, invested with all the sacred privileges of private ownership when the public demanded a square deal.

Contesting with a courage worthy of a better cause, President Smith defied the Interstate Commerce Commission when it attempted to exercise one of its most important functions. He denied that the transactions of a public utility should be public, refused information about the corrupt political activities of the road, declined to answer questions at a judicial examination.

The odds against him are too great. One Federal court has taken strong ground against him and we can surmise what the result will be if he appeals, as he threatens, to the Supreme Court. The time when corporate secrets had the immunities of the individual citizen's private concerns has passed.

Not all the eloquence of stump orators can bring back Huerta or make assassination popular in this country.

WHAT 100,000 LETTERS ASK.

Hardly organized a month, the new Farm Loan Board has already received more than 100,000 letters inquiring about the workings of the new system of rural credits.

It is unfortunate that the difficulties of the subject prevented the enactment of this law until late in the life of the present Congress. Some weeks must elapse before the preliminaries can be arranged for setting the banks up in business. If the plan were at this moment in operation hundreds of thousands of farmers would have before their eyes an object lesson on the motives and quality of the administration outweighing any amount of partisan belittlement from the stump.

With the banks now open for business we would see the Government in the discharge of two widely different and still closely correlated functions of the very largest benefit to the people.

On the one hand, it would be receiving at its postal banks the earnings of those whose particular want is the safeguarding of the money for which they have labored hard. For such money it will be paying the owners 2 per cent interest.

On the other hand, it would be supplying at low rates of interest money to farmers whose particular want is more capital, to overcome the handicap of tenancy or insufficient equipment or unwholesome living conditions.

In the long list of admirable laws that mark progress under the present administration, perhaps there is none that fills a greater need than this farm bank law. Perhaps there is none which will cause the remarkable work of the past four years to be more gratefully remembered in coming years.

Col. Roosevelt's statement that President Wilson's submarine policy is a failure seems to be based upon the fact that the German submarines continue to attack and sink British, French, Russian and Italian ships. It is a failure for the allies, but not for America.

OUR ONE NATIONAL PARTY.

The weakness of the Democratic party is that it is national only in form and profession. During all its history it has been a party of confederated local interests.—Elihu Root at New York.

An astounding statement from a leader of a party whose lack of numbers in vast areas of the country forced it to cut down the scandalous overrepresentation of such areas in its national conventions.

The only political party in American history whose diffusion through different parts of the country was so unequal that the same unit of representation could not be employed for all parts—which was compelled to use one unit for some sections and another unit for other sections in making up its national assemblies—is the Republican party. That the G. O. P. is a sectional party is a historic fact which the G. O. P. itself has officially recognized in recent years.

If the Democratic party is not truly a national party—national in the ubiquity of its members and in the universal diffusion of its influence throughout the country, national in its thought and vision, and national in the sense of representing all classes, which is even more important than representing all sections—then the United States has no national party.

But that the Democracy of today is just such a party, is one of the points by which it is distinguished from the Republican party.

If Hadley, too, had defects, it is all the more reason why both parties should work to give the State better government.

NO GAME IN EUROPE.

The Thueringer "Im Forst und Felde," a bimonthly sporting paper, draws a lugubrious penpicture of the extirpation in German woods of all kinds of game, and in German streams of all sorts of fish. It says in part:

At the outbreak of the war, the royal, ducal and baronial reserves were well stocked with large as well as small game; and our rivers were teeming with fish. During the disturbance of mobilization, the regular forest-guards were called to arms, and were not at once replaced. This resulted in promiscuous hunting and fishing. The consequent depletion was sharply noticeable; but did not become complete until this season, when, owing to inefficient, because crippled or over-aged, forest and river guards, everybody that could use a net hauled in the fish, in or out of season; and shot down the remnant of the game. Hunger knows no law; and the hungry country people simply helped themselves. The genus deer is wiped out, so is that of boar, fox and rabbit or hare. Our streams are without fish. It will be a sorry home-coming for many a sportsman.

The article further says that in France and England game and fish also were nearly extinct; only that the ocean can never be really depleted. Russia also has suffered in her game, "as the armies, going back and forth, spared no quality of game." Though, in the eastern sections, Russia was still "alive with game of all kinds; and will eventually have to restock the balance of Europe."

Several species, however, even in Russia, have become totally extinct, such as the bison, the gray boar and the silver fox, "that had inhabited Poland and its environs. Not a pair of either is left to give hope of rehabilitating the race."

The American tourist will have to do his touring in America—really the best place—if he is not to be interrupted.

THE LADIES' CAMPAIGN.

"SISTERS: If you knew what we women have given up in the way of social engagements alone to make this campaign for Mr. Hughes, I am sure you would feel that to give him your support would be the least you could do.

"You will observe that there are no women of wealth and fashion doing as much for Mr. Wilson. The Democrats are sending out only men, who are for the most part paid for it.

"We are getting nothing. We are giving up our fine homes to live in hotels and Pullmans. We are missing social opportunities which come within the grasp of very few women at any time, and not often to those. If you can compare Newport, R. I., its atmosphere, its sweildom, its exclusiveness and its smart life, with some place like Scranton, Pa., with its correspondence schools, its humble activities, its whatever there is there, and you know what I mean, you may get some idea what sacrifices we women are making for the Republican cause.

"We don't pretend to know anything about the issues of the campaign. I am told there are none. The thing with us is that the Republican party is in peril, that it is within the power of women to save it, and that despite the great material gulf between us we are all sisters. It was that which prompted us to come out and see you. Most of us owe to the policies of the Republican party our fortunes. Some of us haven't added anything to what we had since the Democrats came into power. We were ingrates did not we come to the rescue of the party at a time of peril, and if you will poll the train you will find that we are all here.

"Now, my sisters: Your husbands are probably for Mr. Wilson. Most workingmen are. I don't know anything about the coal mining business, or whatever it is your husbands are engaged in; but I do know there is no nicer man in the world than Charles Evans Hughes, and that if he is elected, coal mining, or whatever it is your husbands do, will prosper. If their wages are not doubled within six months after he gets into the White House, I will—let me see. I was going to say I would pay the difference myself. No, I won't do that. There are too many demands upon me. However, I will be the most surprised woman in the world.

"The Democratic party knows nothing about business. It can empty your husband's dinner pail quicker than scat. How there comes to be anything in it now is more than I can make out. I suppose it is due to the war.

"Still, you will not expect us to give reasons why you should vote for Mr. Hughes. Women do not have to have reasons for doing anything. We want you to do it for a true woman's reason—because. That is all, sisters. Now, if you will come inside, we will have music and ice cream."

NEW VERSION.

THERE is a boarding house
Not far away
Where they have ham and eggs
Three times a day.
O, how the boarders shout
When they bring the jewels out,
How things have turned about
Three times a day!

There's not a room to let,
Try as you may;
It's an exclusive set,
Three times a day.
O, how the table rings
When they serve these tempting things,
Fit now for queens and kings,
Three times a day!

How it is ever done
No one can say;
Think what the bill must run
Three times a day!
Eggs sell at forty cents,
All meat bills are immense;
My, ain't it opulence,
Three times a day!

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

CLEANSING.

DIXIE.—If lemon juice and salt fail to move iron rust from white goods, touch the spots with oxalic acid and expose to the sun.

ROWE.—White velvet: Use alcohol, afterwards raising nap by steam from kettle. Or you may rub into the velvet all the boracic talcum it will hold. Leave it on for 24 hours before blowing it out and shaking the loose powder off. We have no record of fuller's earth for velvet.

HEALTH HINTS.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

C. S.—Daniel Webster's tomato pickle, from "Famous Old Recipes" contributed by descendants of old Virginia families: Chop rather fine one-half peck of green tomatoes, 25 cucumbers and 15 white onions of good size. Slice two large heads of white cabbage. Pack in a large jar with salt between the layers and let stand 24 hours. Drain and pour over the vegetables a scalding hot pickle made from three quarts of the best cider vinegar, three pounds brown sugar, one-half teaspoonful of turmeric, one-half cupful of black ground pepper one ounce celery seed and 3 or 4 ripe red tomatoes or their equivalent in canned. Scald well and pour over the strained vegetables. When cold mix one quarter of a pound of mustard seed, a cupful of the best olive oil and a dessert spoonful of curry powder and one quart of vinegar and stir well through the pickle. (For pickled onions use tender, small white. Wipe carefully, cover with a strong brine, setting in cold place. After three days drain and cover with boiling brine. Put in porcelain-lined preserving kettle and cook in brine five minutes. Drain again and cover with clear cold water for 24 hours. Drain once more, pack in fruit jars and fill jars to overflowing with scalding spiced vinegar; seal immediately. Set away for several months.)

LAW POINTS.

EAST ST. LOUIS READER.—Phone Clerk of the Circuit Court.

A. R.—One moving out of town may be sued on an unpaid tax bill.

KATIE.—For divorce you file a petition in the Circuit Court. Absence a year is ground for it.

A. B.—Law does not require pawnbroker to hold article for any time. He may sell after 60 days. Legal interest 2 per cent a month.

M. M.—Under personal property is included stocks, bonds, business, home furnishings, money, goods, chattels and everything else excepting real estate.

V. E. S.—1. Decision of court final. 2. Certain parts of a section being described, you take according to that, be the same 40 acres, either more or less.

ADA.—Wife who does not want a divorce may sue for maintenance. Whether she would obtain it would depend upon the evidence. Husband's salary could be garnished.

WILLIAM.—There is no reason why a mistake in sending papers to the wrong court should delay the case another 2 years. Your lawyer should know all about this matter.

WANT TO KNOW.—State law requires that expense of building and repairing fence be borne equally by the parties interested. The process of getting justice in this way is tedious, however.

ADVISE.—If he and his housekeeper lived together as husband and wife, and they represented each other as such, it was common-law marriage and there should be a divorce before either marries again.

WORRIED MOTHER.—Damage suits are sometimes brought against doctors, and it has been rumored that doctors "stand by each other" in such cases. If you have a capable physician who can testify that your daughter has been damaged by careless or incompetent treatment, a court might (we don't say would) decide in your favor.

Y. E. S.—Illinois law says roomer's luggage may be sold at public sale after giving 10 days' notice of time and place of sale by publication in newspaper and by mailing, 10 days before the sale, a copy of such notice directed to last known address of roomer or to address as registered by roomer. When these requirements have been complied with, baggage may be sold. Any balance after payment of account belongs to roomer.

PEARL.—After wife is divorced, husband has no right to curtesy, statutory or otherwise, in property, and she can sell it without his signature. Realty being in name of husband and wife, upon divorce, each would own an undivided half interest. If divorce was for husband's fault, wife can claim widow's dower in his real estate, will or no will; otherwise, she is cut off entirely by divorce; should he die intestate, children only could claim his entire estate (less divorced wife's dower if entitled thereto as aforesaid). He can make a will disinheriting his children and same would be valid providing he mentions them therein.

O. W. L.—There is a machine (where sold I am unable to state), whereby in using moistened granulated sugar in the machine, which works on a centrifugal basis, like a cream separator, spins the sugar into a stringy, fluffy mass, exactly like loose cotton. A very small quantity of the sugar makes a large amount of the candy. By compression in the hand it can be (a whole handful) compressed into a hardly noticeable lump. About the best place to look for these machines would be in a theatrical publication.—J. Edwards. The Boston Traveler says: For spun sugar use two pounds sugar, two cups boiling water, one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar. Put all ingredients in saucepan and boil without stirring until syrup begins to discolor, or when, if you have cooking thermometer, the temperature reaches 300 degrees F. Then wash off sugar from sides of saucepan just as if you were making fondant, and after removing from fire place the saucepan in cold water to stop boiling. Have ready, two broomstick handles placed across backs of chairs with paper spread on the floor beneath them. When the syrup has cooled a little, put a dipper in the sugar and shake quickly back and forth over the broomsticks. The dippers used by confectioners are make of coarse wires put in a bundle. There are usually about 20 wires, 10 inches long, with a wire coiled about them to form a handle. If you have not a regular dipper you may be able to manufacture one at home. Take off the spun sugar as soon as it is formed and pile lightly on a cold dish. Sugar may be colored if you like.

The Magic Spoon

Sandman story of the little sheep tender, Gretchen, who drove away the yellow sprite from the Gnome's grandson.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

GRETCHEN was in a hurry. Far up on the mountain side the sheep were scattered about the rocky hills, while over on the edge of the sky a dark cloud was rising rapidly.

"I must hurry and drive my flock home before the storm breaks," she cried as she rushed about wildly to herd the animals to the steep path leading down to her home in the valley.

Presently she looked up and saw she was in a deep valley between two high, rocky walls whose faces were of green stone. This valley was long and narrow, and at the end she saw a green lake on which were sailing several white boats. As the girl came by with her sheep a gnome sprang out of one of the boats and took her by the hand.

"You are just what I want as a nurse for my sick baby," he exclaimed. "You look like a human being, but I can't imagine how you got down here."

"I don't know myself," said Gretchen. "I was running home out of the storm and got lost."

"Well, you can nurse the baby," continued the gnome. "Come with me." And he let her into a hut all of palm leaves. Within lay a tiny baby fretting and sucking its thumbs.

"If you can cure the child and care for it for three days," said the gnome, "you can return home safely and I will pay you handsomely."

Gretchen took up the tiny child. First, she knew it was thirsty and she gave it a nice, cool drink of water. Then she bathed it in warm water, took it out in the air awhile, then rocked it to sleep. It began to look better at once.

"OH, my, how the baby has improved," said the gnome when he came in at sunset. "I am so delighted. It is my grandson, left in my care while its mother is away and left us alone. I don't know what I would have done if you had not stayed down here. But I am going away up the valley for two hours this evening to the diamond mines. While I am gone do not allow anyone to come in here. I have a great enemy, the Yellow Sprite, who may try to harm the baby, but if you keep him out he can do no harm. Here is the spoon for the child's porridge here on the table, but do not touch that iron one on the shelf—it is a magic one and whatever you do with it once you will keep on doing and never be able to stop."

As the sheep were eating quietly and the baby napping Gretchen thought she would doze while the gnome was gone. But she woke up with a start—right in the doorway stood the ugly Yellow Sprite making faces at the child, who began to scream.

"Keep out, keep out!" shouted Gretchen. But it was too late; the Sprite was right in the room in a twinkling of an eye.

"I will have to use my wits to get rid of him and I must not make him angry or he will do us harm," said Gretchen to herself.

"Oh! how you frightened me," she said, aloud; "but I am all right now. I am about to make the baby's porridge. Will you help me?"

The Yellow Sprite evidently thought it might give him a chance to play a mean trick, so he said he would help.

"Here is the spoon," said Gretchen as she put the iron one in his hand. "Watch the fire, and when the pot begins to boil stir it as hard as you can."

IN a few moments the porridge began to boil. The Yellow Sprite at once commenced to stir briskly. Gretchen took out some of the gruel, fed the baby, then sat down to wait for the gnome.

"I am tired of this stirring, but I can't let go and the spoon keeps on spinning around," shouted the Sprite. Frightened, he began to yell at the top of his voice and jump in wild antics about the boiling pot.

"Oh! that's all right," exclaimed Gretchen coolly. "You are just caught in your own trap—you came in here to harm the baby. The gnome will be back in a few moments and settle your matters, I think."

At the mention of the gnome's name the Yellow Sprite uttered a howl and fled through the door down the path to the woods, and so fast did he run that he could not see what way he ran. In his hand he held the magic spoon and it kept on stirring, making great rings in the air, so when the Sprite fell headlong over the cliff into a deep pool of water he was stirring still.

Hardly had the Sprite disappeared from sight when the gnome entered the door. Gretchen told of the trick played on the Sprite.

"Here is your pay," said the gnome. "I am glad to see the baby is well again. Here comes his mother up the walk now. In that bag are a cupful of diamonds to compensate you for your trouble. I will show you the way home."

So with a bag of diamonds in her pocket and driving her sheep before her, Gretchen followed the gnome to the path which led to her home.

The Gay Deceiver

Certain sorts of good fellows are the very ones who should marry. The hero herein is one in particular.

By Howard P. Stephenson.

THE only other passenger thumbed his tobacco into a melancholy pipe-bowl.

"What's your line?" he asked.

"Soap and Christmas candles," I said, and held out my cigar for his light.

"Married?"

"Yes. You?"

"Um-m-m-m." And he stretched his legs, drew up his elbows and looked worried.

"When I was making this territory about this time last year," he began, "I met a pretty, wifey little girl, and we were married before I left town. Tarascon wasn't on my regular trip then, but now I have to strike home once a month.

"You see, I was raised in a family of sisters—all older than I, all unmarried. I could never bring myself to tell them about Edyth. They don't know it yet. Live in Cranford, on the Vandalia. My wife thinks I haven't any folks."

"Well?"

HE blushed. "There—it—we— I'm going to be a father." Then he did blush.

I laughed, sympathetic. "You can't bear not to let your sisters know?" I ventured.

He nodded and gulped.

"Tarascon," called the brakeman. "Tarascon."

• • •

I was on the hot veranda of the Croxton House, at Croxton, some two weeks later, when I felt a modest hand on my shoulder.

"Boy or girl?" were my first words, with a grin.

"Girl," announced the father, with pride. "Sophronia Judith Rose. Named for my sisters."

He seated himself, fished in his pocket for his pipe, and smiled nervously.

"They knew it when I got home," he said. "I'd left Edyth's letter in my room. I believe they had been suspecting all along. Well, they never said a thing at supper, but when I went upstairs I saw a string of baby ribbon sticking out of my sample case. The girls had packed it full of things from their hope boxes. Baby things, they were.

I TRIIID to bluff it out, but I—I couldn't do it, and I'd told them all about it five minutes after I came downstairs.

"We all took the train for Tarascon the next day. Edyth was tickled—said she'd suspected I had sisters. She hadn't, though, of course.

"So I had to name the baby for them. Weighed 11 pounds, too.

"My, I've got to catch that 9:32 for Tarascon!"

He pulled out his watch, then turned the dial to me, sheepishly. Under the crystal was a tiny slip of narrow ribbon, baby-blue.

"So long," he said. "Mayn't see you again. This is my last trip. The firm's giving me a city job, where I can be with my family."

Weight of Child.

THE normal infant at birth weighs about seven pounds. During the two or three days following birth a slight decrease in weight occurs, usually five to six ounces. When nursing begins the child increases in weight up to the seventh day, when it should have regained its weight at birth. From the second to the fourth week after birth an infant should gain about one ounce daily, or one and one-half to two pounds monthly; from the fourth to the sixth month, one-half to two-thirds of an ounce daily or, one pound monthly; from the sixth to the twelfth month one-half ounce daily or less than one pound monthly. At the sixth month it should be twice the weight at birth. The average weight at the twelfth month is 20 to 21 pounds.

Origin of Dialects.

DIALECTS and brogues are the result of peculiarities of speech, first involuntarily adopted by individuals and then perpetuated and extended by the unconscious imitation of others. They are not premeditated or assignable to any definite cause, except the consistent tendency of language to become diversified. The same causes that have produced different languages among different nations tend to produce dialectic variations in the language of every nation.

ST. L. U. WILL USE TEN NEW PLAYERS AGAINST NORMALS

WYNN MAY GET A CHANCE

Today's Game Against Cape Girardeau Will Be Locals' First Appearance.

By W. J. O'Connor.

When the football curtain is lifted on St. Louis University's 1916 grid season at Robison Field this afternoon it will reveal almost an entirely new cast. Even the scenery has been changed. The house has been repainted from pit to dome, as it were. New songs and new lyrics. Music by Earl Painter; book by McGuire and Zachritz—the famous Irish-German team. Admission, four-bits. The line forms on the right, gentlemen, and don't crowd. Plenty of seats for everybody. Fiddle, professor!

Cape Girardeau Normals, who are glutsens for punishment, will assist in the opening ceremonies. The Cape boys are also playing their first game, so we have no line on them. However, those who journey to Robison Field are interested only in knowing who's who on the new Billiken machine.

Capt. Emil Flug, who will start today's game at quarterback is the only player on the present team who had anything to do with that Georgetown fiasco last fall. All the others, except Wynn, who may get a chance in the backfield, are playing their first game in blue jerseys.

Too Early for Hope.

Coach Painter warns the Billiken rooters not to expect much of his team in its maiden start. "I haven't got anything that resembles a football team as yet," said Painter after last night's practice. "In fact, I haven't even an idea about the permanent lineup. I'll give most of the men on the squad a chance today and will be better able to guess who's who after this contest is over."

The Billikens will today take possession of Robison Field for the remainder of the season. A gridiron has been marked off at the eastern end of the park and only the bleacher gates will be opened for the first game. The same field will be used by the soccer teams later in the season. Play starts at 3 o'clock and 12-minute periods will be in order. Linn Milford, assisted by Mathews of Illinois, will officiate.

Edmunds Shifts Lineup.

Running the Dardenelles is duck soup compared to the task of getting past the pickets at Francis Field, these days. A cordon of spy-spotters was thrown out, last night, when the Pikers settled down to secret practice for the Missouri game Saturday.

Coach Edmunds started the final week of preparation on hi-gear and ran his men through signal practice for an hour, topping it off with a scrimmage that was at times vicious.

Two changes were made. Harry Reinhart was permanently assigned to quarter while Connor (Tex) Shanley, now recovering from a "charley horse," went to fullback, vice Tom Dawson, retired. Dawson may get a chance at tackle. Buddy Meyer will hold down right-end, in the Missouri game, with Buddy Kling on the other wing.

Linn Milford, one of Edmunds' assistants, returned yesterday from Columbia and gave his advance views on Saturday's struggle for the state championship. The one cheering part of the Milford's story was the fact that Washington probably will outweigh Missouri by a few pounds to the man.

However, Milford warns the Pikers against the speed of the Royal Bengales. He says Missouri has a much faster team than last season and points to have a genuine star in Stankowski, at quarter, who runs his team well.

Pistman and McMillan are two backs that Milford thinks will have to be hog-tied and branded before the Pikers can triumph. Summed up, however, he says it looks like a "fifty-fifty" fight.

"The team that keeps hustling will win this game," says he.

PENNY ANTE: The Guys Who Won't Admit They're Winners By JEAN KNOTT

Despite Defeat in Second Game, Pitcher Sherrod Smith Hurled Hall-of-Fame Ball

Expected Superba "Explosion" Did Not Appear

Had Brooklyn Come Through With a Timely Hit or Two, Twirler Who Pitched Fine Ball for Fourteen Innings Might Have Won.

By Charles E. Van Loan.

New York, Oct. 10.

SHERWOOD SMITH is no friend of ours. We hold no brief for Wilbert Robinson. We have a speaking acquaintance with Miko Mowrey, and being a fellow native son, we can, between seasons, buy a thirst quencher for Hy Myers.

We once lived in Brooklyn, which, in connection with the fact that we live in California now, may be construed either into a crime or an abnormality. All this season we have been reading about and witnessing that daily explosion of the Robins. It has become an obsession with them and a fixed idea with us that once or twice, during nine innings of normal baseball, they would explode, throw a few baseballs around Flatbush and hand to the opposing teams two, three or four runs, and then overcome the lead by whanging away at whatever was pitched to them.

Naturally, we yesterday expected that the Brooklyn team would blow up at least once and we sat through almost three hours waiting for some U-boat to float in and start the explosion.

No explosion came. The torpedo tubes of that Red Sox outfit were silenced entirely by one Sherrod Smith, so-called to distinguish him from John Smith. Up to yesterday Sherrod Smith was just one of the Smiths of the Smith family, a cousin of the Smiths and related to the other Smiths. Today he was plucked out of the realm of unrecognized genius and shoved up into the neighborhood of Old Man Fame.

With a little bit of luck this Smith would have ranked up with John.

Smith Pitched Like a Genius.

This fellow pitched one of the smartest and best games of ball in history. He outguessed and outpitched Boston, stopped them up and waited for someone to crack one far away and bring home the bacon.

Hy Myers cracked one in the first inning and it looked as if the cracking was good. For five full innings all the Robins cracked away at whatever Ruth happened to serve to them in the most ruthless manner.

It looked as if they were going to maul "Babe" all over the lot, and that Smith was going to stop the Red Sox. He had them stalled and but for a bunch of might-have-beens in the third inning, the crepe might have been hanging on Beacon street instead of Gowanus Bay today.

But after pouncing upon Ruth for five innings, Brooklyn suddenly ceased to hit. They were within a stick shot and a long putt of victory in the eighth, and that was about all the chance they had. From the fifth inning on they were on the defensive and Smith was the stumbling block in Boston's way to victory.

Brooklyn Team Steadies.

Meantime, we all were expecting that daily attack of wild throws and the infantile paralysis epidemic that they have suffered all summer. It refused to come; for, whenever a symptom of the disease appeared, old Dr. Smith prescribed a fast ball and cured them. It is true that Cutshaw had a slight attack in the third inning, and that several others showed symptoms during the clinic; but the old disease appears to be disappearing.

Brooklyn is playing better ball during this series than it played in its own league, which statement is a eulogy in itself.

Yesterday's affair was the best game ever played in a world series, the fastest fielded and the cleverest, and it did more than the management of this series has done to re-establish the world's series in public esteem.

It was real baseball. The teams seem to have lost all awe of each other or of the crowds, and they are playing the game as she is played on the lots. The players even are rag-chewing with the umpires and disputing decisions. In fact, the Brooklyn bunch started at all the umpires yesterday and rode them four heats around Braves Field, while Carrigan and his crew charged back at them and fought for every point, making it look like the old army game instead of a grand opera session of the national pastime.

Yesterday's game ought to be reviewed by acts and scenes. At the climax of the first act Hy Myers (native son) whanged a home run to right center. Two parties tried to intercept that ball and failed by inches, so you may regard it as a heroic feat or a lucky wallop, as you please. It yielded one run, which at that time seemed unimportant, but which later loomed up bigger than Bunker Hill monument.

The next smash came in the fourteenth inning, when Carrigan won by generalship. He guessed from the approaching storm and the darking skies that the umpires would call it a draw at the end of the inning, and when Hoblitzell had drawn his fourth pass and reached second on a sacrifice, he sent McNally, his fastest man, to run for Hobby and called Gardner to bat for Gardner—Gainer a left-hander—and he mauled the ball fiercely to left, while McNally came shooting across ahead of Wheat's throw.

LOW MEDALISTS WILL MEET IN SEMI-FINALS

Women's Golf Tourney Pairings Will Bring Stars Together at the Finish.

Four matches of unusual interest were among those begun this morning on the Country Club links, in the first round of match play in the St. Louis Women's Golf Association annual championship tournament.

Of the 16 pairs that teed off, greatest interest was shown in the following matches:

Mrs. A. N. Edwards vs. Mrs. S. E. Edmunds.

Mrs. E. H. Steedman vs. Mrs. Eberhard Anheuser.

Miss Laurie Kaiser vs. Mrs. Claude Kennerly.

Mrs. C. W. Scudder vs. Mrs. E. Lansing Ray.

The first-named players in each of these matches have not only earned high recognition in local golfing circles in past tournaments, but they were the only contestants in the qualifying round yesterday to turn in cards under 100.

Mrs. A. N. Edwards, city champion, was low medalist with a 97, while Mrs. Steedman, Mrs. Scudder and Miss Kaiser each had a 98. All are opposed to strong players.

The pairings are so arranged that it is possible for the four low medalists of yesterday to reach the semi-finals. As this quartet appeared to outclass the rest of the field, it was the prevailing opinion that the title would almost certainly be won by one of the four favorites.

Pairings Fit Conditions.

Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Steedman are in the upper half of the pairings and Miss Kaiser and Mrs. Ray in the lower half.

The fact that only four scores were turned in that registered under the 100 mark was attributed to the cold weather which chilled the hands of the players before the eighteenth hole was reached.

The scene of battle today shifts to Long Island, where, owing to the restricted conditions, they will only be able to seat about 25,000. Long Island is too narrow to meet the demands, but as the prices will be correspondingly higher it's about as broad as it is long after all.

Here's Hoping.

AS bean spillers the Robins have not been a glittering success, thus far; but fighting in their own ballwick they hope to strew a couple of cans of the Boston piece de resistance on the flats of Flatbush.

Being neutral and not financially interested, we view the frolic with an open mind. But we would like to see the Dodgers erect it up and give the poor Robins a chance to feather their nests. It's going to be a hard winter and the worms will be scarce.

Boston had better bench Gainer or they'll be losers financially. That crucial wallop of Del's will not tend to increase the attendance for today's game.

Coombs' Bad Coaching Beat Brooklyn in Second World's Series Game, Herzog Thinks

Giants' Captain Declares Jack Deprived Dodgers of Two Sure Runs When He Checked Mowrey at Third and Failed to Hold Smith at Second.

By Charley Herzog,

As Told to a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—It was a tough one for the Robins to lose—a heart-breaker for Robbie, their manager. A game that they should have won in the ninth, but lost in the fourteenth.

Hy Myers and Sherrod Smith vs. the Red Sox is my version of the lineup in one of the most wonderful games ever played in a world's series—a game abounding in wonderful playing, inferior judgment and great pitching.

Too much cannot be said of the wonderful allround playing of Hy Myers in the game yesterday. His catch of a line drive off Hooper's bat in the sixth inning was a masterly play. His magnificent throw, cutting down Janvrin at the plate with the winning run was again a grand piece of work, not mentioning the fact that his own home run in the first inning should have won the game in the regulation nine innings.

The pitching of young Sherrod Smith was a marvelous exhibition, from my point of view. He turned back the heavy hitters of the Red Sox at critical times. Two or three times men were perched on second and third when a base hit would have won the game.

I was impressed with his coolness under fire. His wonderful curve and fast ball were seldom hit by the opposing batters to the outfield.

Cutshaw's Miscue Hurt.

If it had not been for a slipup by Cutshaw, with the infield in for a play at the plate, a miscue that does not show as an error, Smith would have come off victor. With a team behind him tossing off opportunity after opportunity he gamely pitched his way into the hearts of 40,000 fans.

Games like that of yesterday are always won and lost through the judgment not only of the players and managers, but of the coachers as well. They are a test not only of good generalship, but also of quick-thinking and playing under the conditions of the game.

With Jack Coombs, a man of unlimited ball experience, coaching at third, it is my opinion that he made a decided mistake when he failed to stop Smith at second, in the third inning, on his hit to right field, allowing this player to be thrown out at third, particularly as at that time there was only one man out.

This play was followed by Johnston's hit, and had it not been for Coombs' blunder Smith would have scored.

Again in the eighth, after Mowrey had singled and Olson had sacrificed, making one out, Miller hit sharply to left center, and with the winning run in sight, Coombs, in my opinion, again used poor judgment in holding the former at third instead of sending him to the plate. The throw from Walker was at least 15 feet wide, and Mowrey, without a doubt, would have scored and the run in all probability would have been the winning one.

Advantages Must Be Pressed.

The argument might be advanced that it was advisable to play the game safely at this point. This is wrong. It has always been my experience that the player and the club that take advantage of such chances as these are in the majority of cases the winners.

Here's Hoping.

AS bean spillers the Robins have not been a glittering success, thus far; but fighting in their own ballwick they hope to strew a couple of cans of the Boston piece de resistance on the flats of Flatbush.

• • •

Being neutral and not financially interested, we view the frolic with an open mind. But we would like to see the Dodgers erect it up and give the poor Robins a chance to feather their nests. It's going to be a hard winter and the worms will be scarce.

• • •

Boston had better bench Gainer or they'll be losers financially. That crucial wallop of Del's will not tend to increase the attendance for today's game.

• • •

Two new towns appeared on the map yesterday through the efforts of Messrs' Delos Gainer and Michael McNally, viz.: Elkins, W. Va., and Minooka, Pa., respectively.

• • •

McNally comes from a noted family of map makers. Putting a town on the map here and there is merely an incident in his life.

• • •

As is usual in affairs of this kind the old stars are not shining and new ones have appeared in the firmament to dim their luster. You can't see Jake Daubert for the blinding rays cast by one Hy Myers.

• • •

Zach Wheat, who used to be as reliable as Mars or Venus, has been lost somewhere in the Milky Way and seems to have retired from business.

• • •

Ducky Gainer, who refused to shine for Hughey Jennings, has suddenly burst into view and seems inclined to hog the heavens.

• • •

Mike Mowrey, Former Cardinal Makes Headiest Play of the Day, Herzog Says

The defense of the Brooklyn infield today was a marked improvement over Saturday. Daubert's fielding at first was above the standard. Olson did far better than in the first game, while Mowrey at third stood out as the star of the Robinson infield.

His ability in quick thinking was shown in the tenth when, with Scott on second, Hooper hit a slow bounder toward third that was impossible for Mowrey to field to first base, ahead of the batter.

Instead of making such an attempt, with a quick turn of his head and a snap underhand throw to Olson he caught Scott overrunning third base.

This, it seemed to me, was one of the headiest, if not THE headiest, play of the game.

As usual, a base on balls to the first batsman was mainly responsible for the loss of the game. Hoblitzell received his fourth base on balls in the fourteenth inning. After he was sacrificed to second by Lewis, the rare judgment of Carrigan was shown in placing McNally, a fast man, in the place of Hoblitzell, a slow runner, and in replacing Gardner with Gainer, a right-handed batsman at the plate.

Robins Fail to Block Move.

This move on the part of Carrigan, especially in view of threatened darkness, was not offset by the Robins in any way. McNally was allowed a big lead off second, while no one on the Brooklyn club took it upon himself to bring the outfield to a position to cut down the winning run.

Undoubtedly more hits are made and in front of outfielders than over their heads. If Wheat had been instructed to play a close left field, and the other outfielders as well, the ball which Gainer hit for a single to left would have been caught in sufficient time to throw McNally out at the plate.

The poor judgment displayed in coaching, as I have said, was responsible for the loss of this game. While it is true that the Robins showed an improved spirit and quality of play, on the other hand one must admire the wonderful judgment of play on the part of the Red Sox.

The pitching of Ruth, who is hailed as Carrigan's star, showed he is a grand ballplayer in every way. Taking into consideration a nerve-racking game of this character and the score, it is remarkable that not a Robin reached first from the eighth inning to the thirteenth, with the single exception of a base on balls to Olson. While much was expected of him from a hitting standpoint, his failure in this respect was no doubt caused by the excessive strain upon him by the tightness of the game.

Players' Pool for First 2 Battles of World's Series $30,000 Ahead of Last Year

The players' pool for the first two games played in the world's series between the Red Sox and the Superbas is more than $30,000 ahead of the total for the opening pair of battles staged in 1915. The total, though, is more than $4000 behind the share the players received for the two battles played at Braves Field last year.

When the first two games in 1915 were played at the Phillies' park the players' share amounted to $50,670.66. This year it is $55,922.37, a difference of $30,251.71. The pair of battles at Braves Field in 1915 brought the players $80,228.25, or $4305.88 more than this season.

In order to equal the pool split by the players in 1915, when the total was $164,899.50, the attendance at Ebbets Field today and tomorrow will have to be large enough to bring them $58,977.13.

NEIL ALLERSON MEETS DENNY HERE TONIGHT

Welterweights Will Furnish Feature at Future City Athletic Club's Show.

Neil Allerson of Omaha, whose name never figured in local headlines before, will break in today as an opponent of Young Denny, the New Orleans welterweight Minute Man.

In both his appearances here, against Sailor Jerabek, Denny jimmied his way into the hall of fame by stopping his opponent in less than 60 seconds.

The first time Jerabek was so crumpled up before he had time to raise his hand or strike a blow; the second time Jerabek did much better—he lasted 35 seconds.

Denny also has performed creditably against some very good welterweights. He outpointed Harry Trendall in 20 rounds at New Orleans on one occasion.

Of Allison and his performances history touches but sketchily—and that history is supplied by himself. Part of it runs as follows:

Opponent.	Rounds	Decision
Fighting Thorpe	10	N.D.
Wildcat Ferns	10	W.
Jimmy Connors	4	K.O.
Bobby Waugh	15	W.
Frankie Whitney	10	W.
Charley Metrie	10	W.
Chester Nearing	4	K.O.

Further introduction will have to develop in the ring tonight, as the written evidence takes us no further.

BASEBALL "POOL" AGENT ARRESTED IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—Charged with violating the lottery postal regulations, Harry D. Nabor of Chicago, alleged to be an agent of an extensive baseball pool syndicate, was arrested at a fashionable hotel here this morning by Federal officers.

Postoffice Inspector Griswold declares that he succeeded in having himself appointed by Nabor through correspondence as Cincinnati agent of the alleged pool and that Nabor was arrested when he came to this city supposedly to collect large sums which had been put up for a pool on the world's series games.

WINDY CITY BOWLERS COMING FOR MID-WEST

Thirty Chicago Teams Expected Here for First Big Tenpin Event of the Season.

Plans for the coming Middle West bowling tournament, which will be held on the Washington alleys, starting Nov. 17, will be perfected at the meeting of the St. Louis Tenpin Association next Sunday at the American Annex. The local officials have been busy and expect to have a record for the event. St. Louis, which has the largest city association of any city, will probably have the largest entry ever made by a single city in a Mid-West tourney.

It is expected that many more teams will enter the local association at Sunday's gathering, as to be eligible to compete in the Mid-West or the local tournaments, a quintet must be a member of the organization. Membership dues are now being received by Secretary Dennis Sweeney.

Chicago, which has been very successful in Mid-West events staged to date, is planning to send a large delegation of pin topplers to this city. The Windy City bowlers have been "going at it" for the past three weeks and already an individual and a head-pin tournament have been inaugurated with the stars of the city entered. If reports coming from the Windy City are true, then no less than 30 teams will be here.

Expect to Set Record.

The one thing the local officials expect to do is to beat the entry total of 1914, when the tourney was staged in this city. That they will do it, with the larger city association, is almost certain.

One of the main topics up for discussion at Sunday's meeting, though, will be the arrangement for the five local tournaments. This number was staged last year and all of them proved a success. There will be the North End, West End, South End and Central handicap events and the scratch tourney, which for the past few seasons has brought the local tenpin season to a close.

Cornell Team Opens 1916 Campaign With a 26 to 0 Victory Over Gettysburg

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Cornell University yesterday inaugurated its 1916 football season, defeating the Gettysburg eleven, 26—0, in a game marred by frequent penalties and fumbles, due to the fact that the contest was played in a drizzling rain, which made it hard to handle the ball cleanly.

Thacher started the scoring in the opening period when Hoffman was shoved over for a touchdown. Shiverick and Capt. Muller were sent over in the second quarter, but Gettysburg braced in the third and held their opponents scoreless. The final score was chalked up by Capt. Mueller in the final quarter. Role at quarter back was the star for Gettysburg.

Cardinal Players Got $40.35 for Their End of Post-Season Games

After the distribution of cash prizes yesterday most of the players on both local clubs hit the long trail for home. Fielder Jones departed at noon for Portland, Ore., while the rear guard of Cardinal players, the Texas delegation, composed of Snyder, Hornsby and Watson, left today.

The Cardinals each received $40.35 for their end of the post-season clash with the Browns. The latter players got a little more than $60.

What, Again?

Battling Levinsky and Gunboat Smith will argue their ring supremacy again at Boston tonight. But seems to be popular in Boston, where he has beaten Tom Cowler, Al Reich and Sandy Ferguson in previous appearances. Levinsky gets $1250 win, lose or draw, for 12 rounds. Levinsky was to have met Coffey, who withdrew at a late hour. This accounts for the appearance of Gunner Smith against the Hebrew.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Look Out, Willie!

G. BUTLER SUTTON, who vies with Willie Hoppe here, late this month, in an effort to win the ivory crown, towit, the 18.2 balkline billiard championship, is again trying to throw a scare into his opponent by his marvelous work in practice.

G. Butler is the workout champion of the world. In his own hall, on his own table and before his own following he has compounded some averages that might induce some shortsighted speculator to hock the family plate and get down on him.

In a letter Sutton incloses his last batch of practice averages. This broadside is so ponderous as to give the championship a distinct list Suttonward. Here are his successive games:

Innings: 1	2	3	4	5	Total.	Av.
181	50	57	9	153	500	100
22	159	97	202		500	125

99	17	87	115	46 44 75	500	71 2-7

70	43	78	68	241	500	100

Hoppe Has Done No Better.

THIS remarkable showing represents an average of 115 for 6500 points—an achievement that surely ranks with anything Hoppe can point to.

In the course of this work Sutton ran one game out in three innings, did three blocks in four innings and had a high run of 321. Several clusters over 200 may be noted in the inning details, and his lowest average was 71 3-7, he twice taking seven innings to complete the 500 points.

It is an impressive showing. If Sutton's arm doesn't vitrify from temperament during the contest, he has a grand chance to amount to something.

A Lesson for the Dopesters.

One of these is: A club which race in mid-season is under a is five or six games behind in the handicap that even sensational baseball cannot always overcome.

In proof of this we can cite at least two instances. The New York Giants, who were on Sept. 1 in fourth place, 15 games behind the leaders, won 26 successive games, a record that outclassed by six games any major league performance in the history of the national game.

Yet, with all this miraculous stunt, the Giants did not lift themselves ONE SINGLE POSITION in the race, finishing in fourth place!

Furthermore, the team was still six games behind the leading team in the race!

Mr. Ananias Rears Up.

SHADES of Ananias and Baron Munchausen filed a protest, last week, against E. E. Smathers for what they characterize as an attempt to break into the exclusive, though extensive Ananias Club.

"Smathers is just an interloper, and his story about wagering $100,000 in two baseball bets last week is not a true, imaginative effort. I don't know Mr. Smathers," continued Ananias, as spokesman, "but from its text his story listens like a four-bottle yarn. Hemp dreams and over-the-mahogany yarns are not legitimate creations of the imagination.

"There may even be some foundation for the Smathers story. In fact, E. E. may actually have risked $500 or so—enough to invalidate him from membership in our organization. No half-way performers are wanted in our hall of fame."

The Crime of Mr. Smathers.

NOW, it's possible Ananias is merely jealous. Or, it may be that news reports of Mr. Smathers' celebrated wagers were absolutely correct. In any case they have aroused keen interest because of the amounts involved and the nature of the wagers.

Mr. Smathers was reported from New York last week to have wagered $80,000 to $50,000 that the New York Giants would not win the 1917 baseball race. He then (so the dispatch stated) bet $20,000 to $14,000 that the Red Sox would win the world's championship.

Mr. Smathers is the well-known harness man and owner at different times of some great performers. He has the financial strength to make such a speculation. But what we want to know, is: Would he consider an application for a safe, reliable, trustworthy stakeholder, willing to work without salary? Nay, we will PAY him $1500 cash for the job—and still make $5000 off the interest—if he will let us hold the stakes in that Giants 1917 bet.

* * *

Hark to the Browns' Story.

AGAIN, take the case of the Browns. The Fielder Jones team was in seventh place July 23. It was some 13 games behind first place. It started a now famous winning streak and captured 14 in a row. It had won 17 games and lost but two before it climbed a single position in the race; and when it finished with a great streak of about 25 wins and five defeats, the team was still in second division!

From this it can be seen that getting behind in a baseball race is a serious proposition. The effort and strain involved in overtaking a team that has even a four or five game lead is apt to exhaust the pursuers for further effort.

It is SOME club that can make up a six-game lead in one month and have enough left to still finish a hard stretch drive.

TIGERS WILL AVERAGE 170 LBS. AGAINST W. U.

However, Coach Schulte Has No Idea How He Will Line Up His Men Saturday.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 10.—The struggle for Missouri Valley Conference football supremacy will get well under way this week, when three important intervalley games are played. Missouri meets Washington at Columbia, the Ames Aggies and Kansas Jayhawkers clash at Ames, while Jack Clevenger and "Germany" Schultz will urge on their Kansas Aggies against Nebraska, three-time valley title-holders, at Lincoln.

Ames and Kansas are both unknown quantities for the season, while the Cornhuskers are picked to find but little trouble with the Aggies, whose star eleven of 1915 has been shattered. This would leave the Tiger-Pikeway contest as the real battle of the week. It is in this regard that the game is held by Chester Brewer and Henry Schulte, directors of athletics at Missouri.

This week at Rollins Field will in the main be a test of backfield material. Only four days of real practice remain before the game and in this time "Indian" Schulte will have to select from a field of some 10 backs the quartet that will line up against the Pikers.

Stankowski at Quarter.

The only certainty at this time is the quarterback selection. Stankowski will undoubtedly be assigned that position. As to fullbacks, White, Ryder and Harry Viner are possibilities. White and Ryder are both "M" men of last year, while Viner starred on the "fresh" eleven. Haines, Collins, Morris, Pittam, Wyatt and McMillan have even chances of seeing halfback duty. Pittam is the only member of this squad who saw service last season. McMillan and Wyatt, both former St. Louis High School players, have shown well in the past week, and are likely to be chosen for at least a part of the game.

In selecting his linemen Schulte will hardly lose any sleep. He has in his squad eight players who faced the Francis Field troop last season, not to mention Bass, an end, who cannot be kept out of the fray. Certainly the gold and black eleven will not lack capable substitutes.

The team will average around 170 pounds at this time. It is possible that a week of strenuous workouts will trim the average poundage to the 165 mark. This is somewhat a heftier front than the 1915 Bengals offered.

AMERICA'S PHYSIC

PLUTO

Every day more people are coming to realize the vital importance of PLUTO WATER. They know that unlike other laxatives, PLUTO is always gently efficacious.

PLUTO is the arch enemy of constipation—the unrelenting foe of all the ills that result from clogged intestines. Every bottle of PLUTO has the beneficial properties of a trip to French Lick Springs.

PLUTO is bottled at French Lick Springs and on sale at your druggist, your club, cafes, hotels and on trains.

Remember there is only one PLUTO WATER. Look for the little red devil on every bottle. It is there for your protection.

Your Physician Prescribes It.

A sales force is being reorganized by one of the country's greatest business institutions. This enterprise is not new, but a decided improvement on old selling methods.

The men we want need have no capital and will not obligate themselves financially in any manner—but must have ambition plus absolute sincerity of purpose.

The men we want can develop this opportunity into an independent profitable business—possibly more tempting, with future advancement, than their present business connections.

This proposition will not require men to work months to build up a profitable weekly remuneration. This has a certainty of a salaried position with the added possibility to increase it, with increased efficiency. Call 206 Princess Bldg., Grand and Olive.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 15 points today and sold 15 to 20 points net higher during the early trading, with December touching 17.28c, or within a point of the recent high record, while January advanced to 17.15c.

The opening advance here was hardly a full response to firm cables, owing probably to a feeling that higher marine war risks justified wider differences but some of yesterday's buyers seemed to be replacing their contracts on a less apprehensive view of the shipping situation. There was also a renewal of trade buying and the market was fairly active during the early session, with the firmness of December encouraging some fresh buying of later deliveries.

Excitement in the speculative grain market subsided today, as traders took a less pessimistic view of the submarine outlook. While outside interest in wheat was light the market developed a good tone, and in the early local trade futures averaged over 1c higher than yesterday's close. Corn also showed betterment and averaged a sharp fraction higher. Oats were firm.

Polish Argentine crop advices were the force back of the advance. Dec. wheat operated at $1.56¼@1.56½, compared with $1.55¼, the close yesterday, sold down to $1.56, then rallied to $1.56⅜@⅝. May opened ⅝c up at $1.56, was quoted at $1.55⅞, then gained to $1.56¾@⅞ bid.

Dec. corn opened ⅛c up at 75⅝c, sold at 75¼c, then rallied to 76c. May started unchanged at 78c. Oats were quoted at 47⅜c bid for December against 47¾c, yesterday's close.

Yesterday's St. Louis cash grain prices were: Quote No. 2 red wheat, $1.58@1.57; No. 3 red, $1.52½@1.57; No. 4 red, $1.38@1.50; No. 2 hard, $1.59@1.63; No. 3 hard, $1.57; No. 4 hard, $1.40@1.54.

The Liverpool market displayed a firm undertone today, but trading is dull and market practically suspended awaiting the Government's special pronouncement this evening. Spot market was firm, but dull and ½d lower to 1d higher. Cargo market dull, nominally unchanged, with practically no bidding. Supplies light and all export offers firmly held. There has been no rain in Argentina and damage reports are increasing, as advices from the North are bad and Center very unfavorable, with drouth already extended to the South. It is expected that heavy losses soon will be reported. Linseed has sustained damage of 75 per cent, but this crop is earlier than wheat. Corn and oats advices are not favorable. Argentine freights are easy, at 125 shillings, or a decline of 20 shillings since Tuesday. United Kingdom arrivals are smaller and export offers strongly held.

ARGENTINE NEWS CAUSES A RISE IN CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Higher cable quotations and the continuance of the drouth in Argentina had a bullish effect today on wheat. Pressure to sell was lessened and traders appeared to be recovering from the shock of the first submarine activity on this side of the Atlantic.

The fact that the entire domestic spring wheat crop is only 2,000,000 bushels more than North Dakota alone raised last year tended also to encourage buyers.

Opening prices, which ranged from ¾c to 1¼c higher, with Dec. at $1.58 to $1.58¾ and May at $1.57¾ to $1.57½, were followed by a moderate reaction, but then a fresh advance.

Corn hardened with wheat. For the most part, however, demand was of a scattered sort. After opening ¼c off to a like advance, the market scored slight gains all around.

Oats derived strength from other cereals. As in the case of corn, though, trade failed to widen out.

Despite weakness in the hog market, provisions had an upward slant. The reason appeared to be higher prices at Liverpool.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 10.—Corn unchanged; No. 2 white, 90c; No. 3 white, 89½c; No. 2 yellow, 90c; No. 3 yellow, 89½c; No. 2 mixed, 90c; No. 3 mixed, 89½c; sample, 86c. Oats unchanged to ¼c higher; No. 2 white, 47½c; standard, 47c.

Naturally Grave.

"I HAVE here," said the party with the unbarbered hair who had ejected his person into the editorial sanctum when the office boy wasn't looking, "a little poem entitled 'A Pauper's Grave.'"

"Huh!" growled the editor. "Nothing remarkable about that. Who has a better right to be grave than a pauper? You certainly wouldn't expect his mirth to slop over. Would you?"

WHAT is all that awful screeching about downstairs?"

"Can't tell till I go down and find out whether Maude's practicing a grand opera aria or whether a bat's got in the parlor."—Baltimore American.

Not Qualified.

"AW—have a desiah to—aw—go on the stage, doncher know," said the callow youth. "Cawn't you—aw—make a place foh me?"

"Sorry I can't oblige you, old chap," replied the theatrical manager, "but I'm afraid most of our scenery is too heavy for you to handle."

THE trouble with the straw vote is that it is generally full of political chaff.

Out of Place.

AN Irishman was on trial charged with assaulting a neighbor and fracturing his skull. During the trial several physicians testified that the man's skull was very thin—a "paper skull."

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced?" asked the Judge.

"No, Your Lordship; but I should like to ask just one question."

"What is it?"

"What was a man with a skull like that doing at a Tipperary fair?"

Full Line.

YES, I may say we have a complete men's store."

"Have, eh?"

"Everything from overalls to dress suits. Clothes for any occasion."

Insuring Silence.

WHY have you borrowed all the graphophone records in the apartment house? Going to give a musicale?"

"No; I merely want to get some sleep tonight."

Leap Year Victim.

"YES," said the mother, "my daughter married a struggling young minister."

"Poor fellow," rejoined the caller. "And she landed him in spite of his struggles."

Somewhat Qualified.

I'M surprised to be put on a committee on naval matters," said Lord Fudgeworthy. "Still, I suppose they know"——

"Yes?"

"That I rowed at Eton."

Lucky, Indeed.

MRS. SMILEY: Here we've been married 10 years and Smiley still says I'm an angel.

Her Friend: But does he really mean it, my dear?"

Mrs. S.: Perhaps not; but don't you think I'm lucky to have a husband who pretends to mean it?"

Amateur Cooks.

MY husband mentioned creamed oysters," said the bride. "I wonder how they are prepared."

"Sort of sundae effect, I imagine," ventured her girl friend. "Creamed oysters are served with ice cream, no doubt."

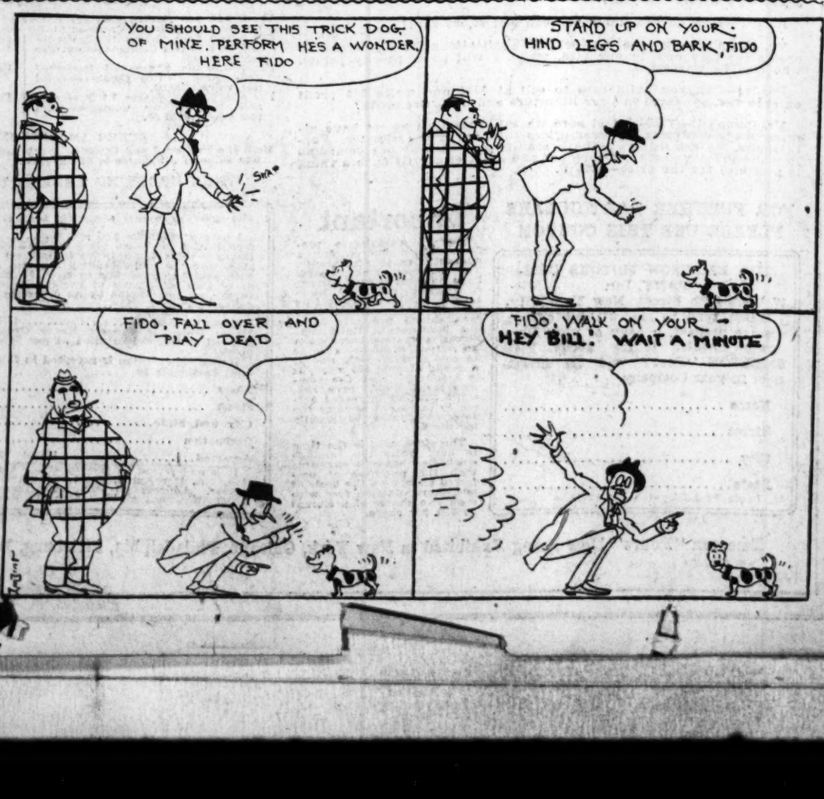
OF course, you put your faith in the wisdom of the people."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "But when I read some of the best sellers, I'm tempted not to."

Many a candidate for office is able to give reasons why he should be elected that are not visible to the eye.

MR. O. U. BRAGGER — By J. R. Lemen



A Good Thing.

MRS. LA FLEUR had a new maid, a recent arrival from over the sea. One day, after Mary had finished cleaning the windows, Mrs. La Fleur was amazed to discover that they had been washed upon the inside only.

She called to Mary and inquired the reason for this half-completed task, thinking that, perhaps, the girl was afraid to sit outside the windows.

"Oi claned 'em inside so's we could look out, mum," said the girl, with fine concern, "but Oi lift th' dirt on th' outside so's th' folks couldn't look in."

His Idea.

YOU must remember, my boy, that wealth does not bring happiness."

"I don't expect it to. I merely want it so that I may be able to choose the kind of misery that is most agreeable to me."

He'd Be Safe Then.

DO you think with your native American independence you would feel unnerved in the presence of a King?"

"Not if I had an ace."

THE NATURAL BEAUTY OF NEW FURNITURE

Don't Endanger It With Artificial Aids.

When you wash a fine varnished surface you take a big risk. Some varnishes will go to pieces under such treatment. Another danger is the use of so-called polishes which impart a high gloss for the time being but which in time dry, check and crack the fine surface.

Best results are obtained by the use of Tobey Polish—made from the secret formula of The Tobey Furniture Company (Chicago and New York), and used by them for cleaning and preserving finishes of varnish and enamel. The fact that a big furniture house uses Tobey Polish on its finest pieces is certainly full assurance of its safety and efficiency when used on the furniture and woodwork in your home.

Tobey Polish restores the life and beauty of fine furniture and woodwork by cleaning the surface and by keeping the natural finish in all its original newness. More than this, it renews the elasticity of the finish, preventing unsightly cracking and checking. Leaves no greasy film—no veneer. Wonderfully easy to use. No hard rubbing. You see the fine results instantly.

And it won't collect dust. Try it on a chair or a piano. See the big difference. Use it on your automobile—see how it maintains the brand-new look. Sold at the better stores everywhere. Bottles 25c and 65c; quart jugs, $1.—ADV.
